APPEALS TO MINERS

President Asks Them to Return to Work and Promises That They Shall Have Justice.

SENDS AN EMISSARY TO MITCHELL

Washington, Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt has requested Mr. Mitchell, president of the Mine Workers' union, to use his influence to induce the men to go to work with the promise of the appointment of a commission to investigate their grievances and a further promise that the president will urge upon congress legislation in accordance with a recommendation of that commission. No reply has yet been received from Mr. Mitchell.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The following statement was made public at the white house this afternoon:

"On Monday, Oct. 6th, Hon. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, went to Philadelphia and gave to Mr. John Mitchell the following from the president:

"If Mr. Mitchell will secure the immediate return to work of the miners in the anthracite regions the president will at once appoint a commission to investigate thoroughly into all the matters at issue between the operators and miners, and will do all within his power to obtain a settlement of those questions in accordance with the report of the commission.

"Mr. Mitchell has taken this matter under consideration, but the president has not yet been advised of any decision."

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE.

The president was in consultation today for almost two hours with members of the cabinet relative to the coal strike situation. He also talked over the situation with Dr. Albert T. Shaw, and Dr. Lyman Abbott. About 11:30 o'clock F. P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration and for many years chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, arrived at the white house from his trip to Philadelphia, where he went as the emissary of the president to convey to President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' association, the proposition of President Roosevelt that the miners resume work. Mr. Sargent had not succeeded in seeing Mr. Mitchell. The president, however, had heard from Commissioner of Labor Wright, who saw Mr. Mitchell on the same errand last night in Philadelphia, and the latter's report was that Mr. Mitchell desired time to consider the proposition and lay it before his associates. After a conference of an hour between the president, Attorney General Knox, Postmaster General Payne, Mr. Sargent and Gen. James S. Clarkson, it was decided to give out the above statement. This was prepared and issued by Secretary Cortelyou shortly before 2 o'clock.

MINERS VOTING TODAY.

The miners' unions are today voting upon the question of whether they shall continue the strike, but this is upon the proposition of the coal operators and not upon the suggestion of the president to Mr. Mitchell. It is expected that the miners will take up the suggestion of the president and decide upon it after it has been presented to them by Mr. Mitchell. Commissioner of Immigration Sargent returned from Philadelphia today, but had no information to communicate, as he did not see Mr. Mitchell in that city.

MITCHELL OPPOSES PLAN.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—It is learned from a reliable source that the proposition made by President Roosevelt was discussed at the afternoon session of the coal conference here and that President Mitchell has taken an unfavorable attitude toward it.

CONFERENCE IN BUFFALO.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—President John Mitchell and his party and the committee appointed by the National Manufacturers' association, arrived here today. No member of either party would discuss the probable proposition to be submitted for a plan [illegible] the [illegible] eration during a continuance of the strike.

The committee from the manufacturers' association is composed of the following members: Frank Leake, of Philadelphia; George H. Barbour, Detroit; D. M. Parry, Richard Young and G. Maxwell, of Indianapolis.

When seen by an Associated Press representative at the Iroquois hotel this morning before the beginning of the conference, Mr. Parry said:

"No tentative plan has been discussed by the committee. Until we get together and talk the matter over with Mr. Mitchell nothing can be said for publication except that we have strong hopes of accomplishing something before the conclusion of this conference, which will be of benefit to the manufacturers of the country."

"Have you any understanding with the operators?"

"No, we have made no move in that direction as yet. If we are able to accomplish anything with Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues we will then try to formulate a plan on a purely business basis to bring the two sides of the controversy together for the benefit of the manufacturers."

President Mitchell, accompanied by the three district presidents, Duffy, Fahey and Nicholls, arrived at the Iroquois hotel at 9:40. Mitchell declined to discuss the action of Governor Stone in calling out the entire National Guard of Pennsylvania, and refused to give the substance of what passed between himself and Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, in Philadelphia.

MITCHELL IS SILENT.

He was asked:

"Has President Roosevelt directly or indirectly made a proposition to you that the miners return at once to work at their present rate of wages, with the promise that he would exert his powers to secure to the miners a redress of their grievances?"

"I have heard nothing from President Roosevelt since the Washington conference," replied Mitchell.

"Have you heard from any source of any such proposition?"

"No, I have not heard of it."

"Is there anything in sight which seems to promise a solution of the present difficulty?"

"Nothing that I know of."

Mitchell was then called to the long distance telephone and conversed with some one in Harrisburg, but declined to say with whom.

At 9:45 Mitchell and the three district presidents went into conference with the manufacturers' committee behind closed doors.

At 12:45 p. m. the coal conference was adjourned until 2 o'clock. Mr. Parry stated that a general discussion of the situation had taken place, but that nothing tangible had been agreed upon.

"Everything is progressing favorably," said he, "and we have hopes that some definite action will be taken at the afternoon meeting."

RESULTS SEEM LIKELY.

When the committee and miners' officials met at 2 o'clock it was announced that one of the manufacturers had been in communication by long distance telephone with a mine operator. It could not be learned who the operator was, but the fact that negotiations between the committee and President Mitchell had progressed to such a stage that it was deemed advisable to consult one of the operators was regarded as significant. It had been stated by several members of the committee early in the day that no understanding existed between the operators and manufacturers and that no step in that direction would be taken until some feasible plan had been settled upon by the conference.

A statement of today's proceedings will be given out on adjournment.

NAVAL VETERANS HAVE PARADE IN WASHINGTON.

ESCORTED BY SOLDIERS

PAGEANT REVIEWED BY CHEERING THOUSANDS.

VISITORS THRONG CAPITAL

GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT BEGINS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The bright sunshine which ushered in the opening of the G. A. R. encampment yesterday was succeeded today by cloudy weather. But the change had no effect on the spirits of the vast crowds which early swarmed into the banner-decked streets and hurried to Pennsylvania avenue to take their places for the big naval parade, which was to be the chief event of the morning. Before 9 o'clock the roped-off sidewalks were packed with blue-coated veterans and other visitors, while the air was filled with the blare of bands and the steady tramp of uniformed soldiers, sailors and marines marching to their alloted places in the line. It was estimated that over 100,000 visitors were in the city. The parade was under the command of General Heywood, commandant of the marine corps as marshal of the day, and consisted of all the regular troops located in and about Washington, marines and jackies from the warships, the District of Columbia National guard, the Spanish war veterans, Sons of Veterans, High School Cadets and the Association of ex-Prisoners of War, acting as escorts for the naval veterans.

MARCH OF THE VETERANS.

The column started at 10 o'clock and marched through the densely packed streets to the accompaniment of almost continuous cheers to the reviewing stand opposite the white house, where the escorting bodies halted and formed to review the naval veterans who filed past and disbanded near the state, war and navy building.

Even while the parade was in progress the reunions of some of the army corps were taking place in the tented city on the white lot. The Second army corps assembled in Grant tent, the association of the Fifty-third Pennsylvania regiment in Farragut tent, the first brigade of the second division of the Twelfth army corps in Meade tent and the cavalry corps of the Western army in Sherman tent.

The parade was reviewed from the stand in front of the white house by Admiral Dewey and Commander in Chief Torrance. With them were Secretaries Moody and Root, Admiral Taylor and most of the members of the diplomatic corps now in the city. Admiral Dewey was in full uniform and was accompanied by the two aides.

The procession occupied about an hour in passing the reviewing stand. Each different division received liberal cheers, the veterans being given especial attention.

MANY REUNIONS HELD.

The afternoon was devoted almost entirely to reunions and receptions. At 1 o'clock there was a reception at Mother Bickerdike tent. At 2 o'clock the reunion of the Spanish war veterans occured in Grant tent, that of the Fourth army corps at Sherman tent, the cavalry corps of the Army of the Potomac at Farragut tent, the joint meeting of Patriotic Women at Meade tent and the Sixth army corps dedicated the monument to Gen. Horatio G. Wright at Arlington. From 3 to 5 p. m. Capt. Eugene F. Ware, the commissioner of pensions, will hold a reception at the pension office. Tonight the big "dog watch" of the naval veterans and other reunions will be held at Camp Roosevelt, including the reunion of the Army of the Tennessee at Grant tent, the Sixth army corps at Sherman tent, the Fifth army corps at Sheridan tent, the prisoners of war at Farragut tent, and the Ninth army corps at Meade tent.

SONS OF VETERANS MEET.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans began at Carroll hall today. The proceedings, which were private, consisted of the submission of reports of officers and of other routine work. There was a public reception at noon at which speeches were made by Chairman MacFarland, Commander-in-Chief Torrance, of the G. A. R.; Chaplain-in-Chief Ennis, of the Sons of Veterans; B. H. Warner, chairman of the local committee, and others.

DR. SAMUEL ARNOLD IS DEAD

WAS CONVICTED OF PART IN LINCOLN'S DEATH.

Pardoned by Andrew Johnson—Always Said He Had Statement to be Published at Death.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 7.—Samuel Arnold, 72 years old, who was convicted in 1865 of participating in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, is dead at his home at Masonville, Arundel county. Arnold, along with Dr. Mudd, Frank McLaughlin and others, was tried and convicted in Washington during Andrew Johnson's term of office. Arnold and Mudd were sent to the Dry Tortugas for life, but were pardoned by President Johnson after he had been acquitted in the impeachment trial. All efforts to get Arnold's story of the incidents leading up to the tragic death of President Lincoln were futile. "I have prepared a statement which will exhonorate me from guilt which will be given to the world after my death," was all he would say concerning the tragedy.

TROOPS IN FIELD

ENTIRE MILITIA OF PENNSYLVANIA UNDER ARMS.

CALLED TO STRIKE REGION

GOVERNOR'S ACTION CAUSES LITTLE COMMOTION.

LITTLE DISORDER REPORTED

MINERS VOTING ON QUESTION OF RESUMING WORK.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—By tomorrow morning ten thousand troops, the entire force of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, will be on duty in the anthracite coal region, pursuant to the orders issued late yesterday by Governor Stone.

The various regiments and brigades are being mobilized today and some are already in the field.

This is the first time since the memorable Homestead strike in 1892 that the entire national guard of Pennsylvania has been called out.

THE FORMAL ORDER.

The formal order of Major General Miller disposing the national guard in the various counties affected by the strike says:

"The division is hereby ordered on duty in the counties of Luzerne, Schuylkill, Carbon, Lackawanna, Susquehanna, Northumberland and Columbia, to see that all men who desire to work and their families have ample protection; * * * protect all trains and other property from unlawful interference, * * * arrest all persons engaging in acts of violence and intimidation and hold them under guard until their release will not endanger the public peace, * * * see that threats, intimidations, assaults and all acts of violence cease at once. * * * The public peace and good order will be preserved upon all occasions, * * * and that no interference whatsoever will be permitted with officers and men in the discharge of their duties."

VOTE TO STAY ON STRIKE.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 7.—In accordance with the address issued by President Mitchell last night calling upon all local unions to meet and take a vote on the question of remaining on strike, the mine workers of the Prospect, Oakdale and Midvale collieries of the Lehigh Coal company held a meeting in this city today and at its conclusion it was announced that the men had unanimously decided to stay out in a body until they had won the strike. This is the first meeting held in the anthracite field under the instructions of President Mitchell.

WYOMING VALLEY QUIET.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 7.—The news of the calling out of the entire national guard of Pennsylvania did not become generally known throughout this region until this morning, the news having been received too late last night for general circulation. It was received in a matter-of-fact way and did not cause any commotion of much surprise. The entire Wyoming valley, of which Wilkesbarre is the center, was extremely quiet this morning. The sheriff has received no reports of violence anywhere, and, in fact, there has been no disorder of any consequence since last week.

The situation so far as the mining of coal is concerned remains absolutely unchanged. There is some coal being shipped, but the quantity is very small compared with the normal production.

The absence from strike headquarters of President Mitchell and the district presidents, who are in Buffalo today in conference with representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers, made things rather quiet here. National Board Member John Fallon was in charge, but he

THEY MAKE A VISIT TO THE ORPHANS' HOME.

Reformed Church Clergy From Many Points Inspect Fort Wayne Institution.

A distinguished party of clergymen of the Reformed church, who have been in attendance at the Northwest synod of the Reformed church in the United States, which has just closed its sessions at Magley, Adams county, arrived in Fort Wayne last evening for a casual visit to the orphans' home of that denomination, just east of the city.

In the party were Rev. J. G. Steimert, of Detroit; Rev. E. A. Hamman, of Prairie du Sac, Wis.; Rev. F. Maurer, of Arbine, Neb.; Rev. Carl Heyl, of Monticello, Wis.; Rev. W. F. Horstmeier, of St. Louis, and F. Althof, of Loran, Ill. They were driven to the home immediately upon their arrival and spent the night at the institution. Rev. Horstmeier, who has but recently returned from a tour of Palestine, gave a most interesting address before the children this morning and all the visitors were profuse in their praises of the institution.

Rev. Ruf, the superintendent, accompanied the party to the city this morning and the visitors took trains for their homes.

LUTHERAN MINISTERS MEET

NORTHERN INDIANA CONFERENCE OPENS TODAY.

Over Eighty Ministers Are in Attendance—Will Continue in Session Until Thursday.

Eighty pastors are in attendance at the annual convention of the Northern Indiana Conference of the Lutheran church, which is being held at Emmaus Lutheran church on South Broadway. The district includes all the counties north of Indianapolis, and the convention is one of the largest in point of attendance ever held.

The meetings opened this morning with a devotional service, Rev. Schumm, of Lafayette, president of the conference, presiding. Rev. August Wilder, of Bremen, read a paper on "The Mellenium" and the greater part of the morning session was devoted to a discussion of the paper. The question of the establishment of a fund for the assistance of students in need of financial aid was discussed, but no action was taken.

The convention will be in session until Thursday evening. On Wednesday there will be a public service at Emanuel church on West Jefferson street.

OPPOSE EIGHT HOUR DAY.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The National Association of Manufacturers is sending out a circular letter to manufacturers urging them to defeat beyond resurrection the "eight-hour" bill pending in congress. The circular is signed by the president, D. M. Parry, and the secretary, Marshal Cushing, of New York. "We do not oppose organized labor," said Mr. Parry today, "but we do oppose this bill. It is hard enough now for us to get foreign trade. We don't intend to be put on the same footing as the manufacturers of Great Britain, whose trade has been simply slaughtered by laws similar to the one now proposed."

FOOD FOR SLEEP.

A Sure Way to Comfort.

The right kind of food will restore any weak stomach. It is better off without drugs and a little judgment in selecting light weight and easily digested food does the trick.

A man in Grand Rapids, Mich., upon recovering from a severe attack of nervous prostration, says:

"The principal trouble was an intensely irritated condition of the stomach, so severe that diluted milk would cause a sensation as if molten lead had been swallowed. At length, I began to study my own case, and abolished drugs and commenced experimenting with my diet.

"Grape-Nuts was brought to my notice, and I found it very palatable; and as a regular morning dish, it met all the requirements, and sustained me until midday. After using Grape-Nuts a week, physical discomfort grew less, my strength began to return and I gained steadily in weight.

"Along with all these improvements came good, peaceful sleep, which had been so flighty a visitor, and with it came returning hope and ambition, and now, with perfect health, it gives me pleasure to give Grape-Nuts the credit it deserves." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

At the Price of Suffering.

Woman on her way to semi-invalidism caused by pregnancy suffers much pain.

Ignorance prompts her to suffer alone in silence and remain in the dark as to the true cause—motherhood.

Mother's Friend takes the doctor's place and she has no cause for an interview. She is her own doctor, and her modesty is protected. Daily application to the breast and abdomen throughout pregnancy will enable her to undergo the period of gestation in a cheerful mood and rest undisturbed.

Mother's Friend

is a liniment for external use only. It would indeed be shameful if the sacrifice of modesty were necessary to the successful issue of healthy children. All women about to become mothers need send only to a drug store and for $1.00 secure the prize childbirth remedy. Healthy babies are the result of using Mother's Friend. Something must be done— uickly—those liquor delegates d, if the trade meant to retain me-honored hold upon the souls, s and pocketbooks of the Ameri- eople. Such a condition of af- fairs in any ordinary political convention might have started an uproar, or even caused a stampede. But the liquor men, knowing that confusion would be fatal, held themselves well in hand and kept a stiff upper lip. They decided that the only way to restore to alcohol its ancient dominion was to begin a campaign of education forthwith.

Four weeks from today the elections will be held. There is but one month more of the campaign and no sign or prospect that the apathy that has marked it in this state is going to be followed by deeper interest or greater activity. The voters are holding fireside political meetings under their own roofs, if they are holding any, and there is ample evidence that men and issues are being studied from standpoints of merit and promise of public good. There are likely to be many surprises when the votes are counted.

About the healthiest sign of the times is the way justice is being doled out down in St. Louis. Half a dozen boodlers have already been convicted, including a millionaire briber, and a score more are likely to order loud stripes for their fall suit patterns. It took St. Louis a long time to find out what was the matter with her, but when she did there was "something doing."

The governor Pennsylvania has called out the entire national guard of the state for duty in the anthracite mine region. The number of troops that will be in the field by tomorrow will be ten thousand, a force sufficient, it would seem, to thoroughly police the strike region, maintain order and afford protection to all who want to go to work in the mines. Governor Stone's action seems to have been rather suddenly determined upon and the reasons for it do not appear to be well understood. The probability is, however, that he has decided to take the mine operators at their word and afford them all the protection in his power in their endeavor to mine coal. At the Washington conference last Friday the operators told the president that with ample military force to protect men who were willing to go into the mines they would soon relieve the coal famine. Governor Stone has given them the entire national guard of the state to protect their men and property. It is now up to the mine owners to prove that they can get the men to return to work. Just at this time it is interesting to note that dispatches from the Wyoming valley region state that all is quiet throughout that region and that there has been no disorder for many days. A matter of further interest is that pursuant to instructions from President Mitchell the local unions of the miners' organization are voting solidly to remain on strike.

FARMERS' CONGRESS MEETS.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 7.—The twenty-second annual session of the Farmers' National congress was opened in this city today with an estimated attendance of 1,500 delegates representing every state in the union. The meeting was caled to order by President Geo. L. Flanders, who delivered his annual address. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Governor Chandler and George A. Smith, of the city chamber of commerce. Vice President Harvey Jordan, member of congress, responded. The morning session was taken up with the examination of the report of the committee on c

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Wheat opened about steady, the influence of large receipts in the northwest and southwest being offset by firm cables. Trading was light early in the day with local sentiment apparently on the buying side, and with no great pressure to sell. December opened ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher at 69⅝c to 69⅞c, and the range for some time thereafter was between 69⅝c and 69⅝@69¾c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 1,240 cars, which, with local receipts of 245 cars—5 of contract grade—made total receipts for the three points of 1,485 cars, against 1,427 cars last week and 1,041 cars a year ago.

Dullness prevailed the latter part of the session. December closed ¼@⅜c lower at 69⅜@69½c.

There was a slight decline in corn at the opening, due to improved weather, but the market held fairly steady. December opened ⅛@¼c to ⅛@⅜c lower at 48½c to 48⅝c and declined to 48¼c. Local receipts were 172 cars, 13 of contract grade.

Corn closed weak for December, but firm for May. December at one time sold at 48⅞@49c, but the close was ⅜c lower at 48⅜@48½c.

Oats opened quiet but steady with a rather bullish undertone on continued small receipts and a good cash demand. December opened ⅛@¼c to ¼c lower at 32¼c to 32¼@32⅜c. Local receipts were 161 cars.

The provisions market was featureless and the opening was slightly lower on a decline in the hog market. January pork opened 10c lower at $15.85; January lard unchanged to 5c lower at $8.95@9.00, and January ribs 2½c lower at $8.30.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 7.—Opening quotations for stocks showed a rebound from yesterday's depression owing to the hope of relief for the money market by purchase of government bonds by the treasury department and to a favorable interpretation of developments in the coal strike situation. Stocks which were most depressed yesterday showed most strength. Canadian Pacific rose 2 points. St. Paul, allowing for the 4 per cent dividend off, rose 1½, Norfolk and Western as much and Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Atchison, Erie, Louisville and Wisconsin Central about a point. The market was active and broad.

A good deal of long stock which had been awaiting a market was sold on the advance, which checked any further improvement. The offerings were pretty well scattered and caused numerous reactions of a point or over. St. Paul, Louisville, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific were a few of the representative stocks that were largely pressed for sale. Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie preferred declined 5½. Prices recovered again, but failed to get back to the highest and there was renewed weakness in spots before 11 o'clock.

The market yielded steadily on light sales until the opening advances were about wiped out and St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Louisville, Southern Pacific and a few of the coalers and specialties sold under yesterday's final price. Sloss-Sheffield Steel broke 6¼. But little money was offered at less than 12 per cent. Towards noon prices hardened a small fraction and the market was intensely dull.

Bonds were irregular at noon.

The Grape Cures of Germany

Cure Constipation Permanently.

A Crushed Fruit Tonic-Laxative.

I consider Mull's Grape Tonic the very best medicine I have ever taken. My stomach was in such a bad condition that nothing tasted right and the small amount of food that I was able to eat didn't seem to do any good. I became so nervous that sleep was impossible. My strength gave out and I became exhausted and completely run down. I then commenced to take Mull's Grape Tonic and by the time I had finished two bottles my health returned. I now relish my food and can sleep as well as ever.

THIS IS MY VOLUNTARY TESTIMONY. MRS. D. GIANELLI, 404 S. Joliet St., Joliet, Ill.

The reason for the phenomenal success met with by Mull's Grape Tonic in the cure of all afflictions resulting from constipation, is due largely to the delicious flavor of the tonic and the desire of the patient to take his medicine regularly, not alone for its infallible benefit, but for its pleasant taste. Mull's Grape Tonic is purely a cure for constipation. Constipation causes nine-tenths of all illness. If you cannot sleep, have rheumatism, are weak, can't get the full nourishment from your food, or if you have lung trouble, kidney disorders, piles or stomach disorders it is probably due to constipation. Mull's Grape Tonic will cure the constipation and cause the body to recover from the attendant ills.

Mull's Grape Tonic is not a new or secret preparation known only to the compounder. Its formula is known by nearly all physicians who have been prescribing it for many years. In Germany, where it originated, it is known as the Traubenkur, and which being translated means Grape Cure. It excels Cod Liver Oil as a flesh builder and blood maker with the additional advantage that it does not nauseate the weakest stomach. Mull's Grape Tonic instantly aids in the assimilation and digestion of the food. The blood-making and strength-building properties contained in the natural fruits of which it is composed are readily absorbed by the debilitated system, restoring such a strength and vitality as the sufferer from chronic constipation has not experienced in many years. Its benefit in building up the system is marked and positive. Your doctor would prescribe the same treatment. You can save his fee by securing Mull's Grape Tonic at your druggist at 50 cents a bottle. Send the name of your druggist and 10 cents to cover postage to the Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., for a large sample bottle.

GOULD ADVANCED

IS GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT OF MISSOURI PACIFIC.

WAS ON WABASH 13 YEARS

MODEL OFFICER AND POPULAR WITH EMPLOYES.

NO DANGER OF A STRIKE

WABASH SHOPS COMMITTEE BACK FROM CONFERENCE.

E. A. Gould has resigned as superintendent of the eastern division of the Wabash. This surprising bit of news was conveyed to Fort Wayne last night in the following characteristic statement from Mr. Gould:

"Peru, Ind., Oct. 6, 1902.

"To Officers and Employes:

"Having resigned to accept service with another railroad, I desire to thank each and every employe of the eastern division for the loyal and efficient service given me during the past thirteen years. I wish you all a happy and prosperous future and I would be pleased to meet as many of you as possible at my office between 2 and 5 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 7.

"E. A. Gould."

This message created a great surprise and its receipt was followed by a general expression of regret, for the retiring superintendent is popular with his men and liked by each one of them. It is understood that the resignation takes effect on the 15th inst. While there is no official authority for the statement, it is understood that Mr. Gould will on the date named assume the office of general superintendent of the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters at St. Louis. Mr. Gould was once a trainmaster on the Missouri Pacific and is not unknown to the officers and directors of the road. He is an Indiana man, having been born near Rising Sun, Nov. 23, 1851. His first railway experience was in the capacity of a messenger in the telegraph department of the Ohio and Mississippi road in 1869, when he was 18 years old. Later he became an operator on that road. August 1, 1873, he went to the Missouri Pacific as a train dispatcher and later became chief dispatcher. In 1884 he became trainmaster of the Sedalia division of the road. In 1890 he came to the Wabash as assistant superintendent and master of transportation and a few months later was appointed superintendent of the eastern division. Although he never resided in this city, he is well acquainted here through his numerous visits and is popular in business circles as well as with the railway men.

HE SUCCEEDS HARDEY.

Peru, Ind., Oct. 7.—Emmett A. Gould today resigned as superintendent of the Eastern division of the Wabash railroad and will succeed Daniel Hardey, general superintendent of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

COUTANT STILL IN CHARGE.

The successor to Master Mechanic M. R. Coutant, of the Wabash, has not been named yet, and Mr. Coutant is still in charge of the office. It is rumored, upon rather indefinite news from Springfield, that Ed Needham, assistant master mechanic at Ashley, would be sent here, but whether to assume temporary or permanent control the meager reports do not state. If Mr. Needham gets the appointment it will not be surprising to the employes at this place and no appointment would be more acceptable. Mr. Needham was foreman of one of the departments of the shops here once and all the men know and like him. If he is sent here as their master mechanic they will honestly and faithfully endeavor to make his administration satisfactory to all concerned. Up to the noon hour today no information on this subject had been received at the local offices.

THE COMMITTEE RETURNS.

John Cleary, Fred Nahrwald and N. J. Murphy, who composed the committee appointed by the Wabash machinists and boiler [illegible] here to go regarding wages at the shops, returned home yesterday. While they will not talk at this time for publication, it is understood that the trip to Springfield was in part successful in its aim. A satisfactory agreement concerning working hours and the apprentice question was reached, but the question of wages had to be submitted to President Ramsey, and he has not yet replied. The general belief is that the question, too, will be amicably settled.

SHORTAGE IN LOCOMOTIVES.

A leading railroad official, who knows all about the locomotive building business and the present scarcity of engines, and whose opinion was sought as to the practicability of the railroad companies turning out their own engines in order to meet more quickly the prevailing emergency that is more likely to get worse than better, in discussing the subject, said:

"Very few railroad corporations in this country are today in a position to make so audacious a move in the face of what we know the regular builders have to face. The Pennsylvania might do it, the Burlington also, and several other larger companies, but even these have been forced to go into the market and place orders, notwithstanding the facilities they have for construction by their own men.

"The Pennsylvania has steadily turned out engines of its own design and building and is still doing so, but look at the big order it has recently been forced to divide between the regular builders. This is owing not alone to the limited capacity of its own shops, but also the comparatively lower cost—the remarkable cheapness of the output of the builders, which cannot be excelled and in very few instances equaled for speed and power.

"Another reason why these roads, that ordinarily would be able to supply their own needs in motive power cannot do so is that pressure of traffic keeps what engines they have so constantly employed that their power is overworked and must be shopped oftener, in order to keep them in the best repair and up to the highest percentage of active service.

"There is not a railroad in this country that has any reason to complain of idleness in its locomotive repair shops, and those like the Pennsylvania and Burlington are compelled to utilize those which would otherwise be devoted to building operations in order that repairs can be promptly and expeditously made."

WERE WELL ENTERTAINED.

Like the former entertainments given by the Ladies' society, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the affair given by the ladies at Brotherhood hall last night was a great success in every sense of the word. There was a good attendance and each number of the excellent program was well rendered and received. All came in for a fair share of applause, but Miss McMillan, Miss Gladys Greek and Miss Estella were particularly well received and encored. Estella Greek is a little tot and her recitation of "We Have Got a Baby at Our House," was given in a manner that would be a credit to one much older than herself. At the close of the stage program the ladies set about getting the refreshments ready and in the meantime the little folks present indulged in a peanut hunt, which afforded amusement for the older ones, until the refreshments were served.

ON INSPECTION TRIP.

A party of Pennsylvania officials are out on division C, of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road today, inspecting the new second track work which has been under construction for the past year and which is now fast nearing completion. This double track work also involved the replacing of a number of bridges by larger and more substantial structures, one of them a stone arch over Broken Sword river, which is the largest bridge of its kind on the Fort Wayne road. Grades and curves were also reduced and in some instances eliminated entirely and the work as a whole has been thorough and very costly. Tomorrow the party will make a trip over the western end of the division, Fort Wayne to Chicago, where even greater improvements in roadbed have been in progress for the past year. In the party are Supt. J. B. McKim, Engineer of Maintenance of Way Blake, Trainmaster J. F. Patterson and Chief Dispatcher J. G. Jennings.

WAS A BUSY MONTH.

Despite the light traffic in coal, due to the strike of the anthracite miners, September last was a busy month in local railway circles, as shown by the report of J. O. Goff, the agent of the Indiana Car Service association. Mr. Goff takes account of only car load lots of freight that do not pass through the freight houses. He reports that month 1,828 cars against [illegible] and 1,636 cars [illegible]

HAD HIS HEAD CUT.

J. H. King, of 1902 Thomas street, and a switchman in the employ of the Pennsylvania company, received a bad scalp wound at 5:30 o'clock last evening at the Fort Wayne Electric works. King was standing on a box car which was being pushed down the factory tracks to receive a load of dynamos. He was struck by the projecting crane beam, used in loading and unloading cars, and was knocked down on the car roof. A companion saw the accident and rushed to the injured man and prevented him from rolling off the car and possibly receiving more serious injuries. The wound, which is very painful, extends nearly across the front portion of the crown of the head.

HELD A SPECIAL MEETING.

Fort Wayne lodge, No. 136, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, held a special meeting last night to transact some business and initiate some applicants who could not attend the regular meeting last Sunday. The business was of a character of interest only to the members and it was decided to not give it publicity. The new members are Martin L. Bulger, M. M. Logan and F. A. Thomas, the former a Wabash switchman and the two latter brakemen on the Pittsburg road.

WILL REPORT FOR DUTY.

Tomorrow the veteran Nickel Plate Engineer Joseph Bracht will resume his place at the throttle, after an absence of over three months. The reader will remember that Mr. Bracht had an arm broken in the yards in this city just as he was about to take his run out on a freight train. Tomorrow he will take one of the local freight runs between this city and Leipsic.

CONSIGNMENT OF LAMPS.

Among the shipments from the Fort Wayne Electric works today was a carload of Mr. Wood's latest in arc lamps to Conway, Pa., where they will be installed in the Pennsylvania round house and yards. A motor to Hagerstown, Pa., and a motor to the American Vulcanized Fibre company, Newark, Dela., were also among the shipments today.

BRAKEMAN LOSES HIS TOES.

E. D. Ream, a brakeman on the Nickel Plate, lost all of the toes of his left foot yesterday afternoon. The accident happened at Mortimer and the unfortunate man was taken to his home in Leipsic Junction after receiving medical attendance. Ream is on a local freight run between this city and Leipsic.

HAD A BIG MEETING.

Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, met for the first time in its new hall in Harmony building last night. The attendance was far greater than it had been at any of the previous meetings in the history of the lodge, indicating a growing interest in the union.

HAD A FINGER CRUSHED.

B. R. Stanbury, a laborer in the shipping department of the Pittsburg shops, had a finger crushed yesterday while handling some castings and will be unable to work for awhile.

Brakeman E. H. Shrider, of the Pennsylvania, is sick.

Joseph E. Reichelderfer has taken a position in the Pittsburg boiler shop.

M. P. Gaskill, John Rupp and P. V. Romy, Pittsburg shopmen, are sick and off duty.

SMALL INTEREST IN POLITICS

MEETINGS THIN AND PARTY LOYALTY WEAK.

Correspondent Blodgett Gives His Views of the Situation in State of Indiana.

Writing from Fort Wayne under date of October 6, W. H. Blodgett, field correspondent of the Indianapolis News, sends the following to his newspaper:

There is "nothing doing" in politics out in the state. Men who have been familiar with politics for years say that never before have they seen such apathy among politicians and so little interest taken by the rank and file.

The different party organs are publishing stories of the great meetings addressed by orators of their respective party and the "frost" the other fellows are having. The fact is that about every speaker is having a "frost." The meetings held by the two United States senators are not to be compared with those that Mr. Fairbanks and Mr. Beveridge addressed during the last state campaign. Speak to a man about the political conditions in his neighborhood and he answers that there are no conditions, because there is no politics.

Another unusual state of affairs is the large number of "doubtful" voters. Some men who for years have taken the poll of their localities say that at least two-thirds of the voters who always announced their politics this year say that they do not know how they will vote. Even some who have been active partisans say that they are taking no interest this year; there are no issues involved, etc., etc.

LARGE STAY-AT-HOME VOTE.

Everything, politicians say, points to a large number of "stay-at-homes" in both parties, and in counties where the vote is close the managers are making strenuous efforts to get out the vote. It is admitted on all sides that none of the political parties has anything near the local organizations in the different counties that it has had in previous years. There are rows and dissensions in the ranks of both parties all over the state and one is about as bad as the other in that line. The local managers deny that there is any trouble, but an unbiased person is not in any community long until he learns of the troubles, for they are soon told to him. The prohibition party is really in better shape out in the state than any of the other parties. The prohibitionists have a fair organization in about every county, and there is not much dissension in their ranks, but, for that matter, they have not many votes, either.

Well-informed politicians say that there will be more "independent" voters this year than for a long time. They think that the men marked "doubtful" on the poll books will do a great deal of scratching on their county tickets. But for the horde of nominees going up and down the state, it is asserted, the state tickets would be entirely forgotten. There is some feeling as to members of congress and both republicans and democrats are making a fight for members of the legislature.

The democrats are not making any great effort to get the farmer vote. The local managers say that in the country they hope to hold their own, but admit in some places that the republicans will make gains in the country. The democrats say they will offset the defection in the country by gains in the cities and towns.

SOCIALISTS GET ATTENTION.

Just how the factory men and the coal miners will vote is causing the candidates and the party managers a great deal of uneasiness. These are great times for the socialists, and it is noticeable that many well-dressed and intelligent young men are conducting meetings and giving out socialist literature. In some places the socialist vote practically controls the situation.

There is another political force that will cut a large figure, and that is the women; not the political women, but the housewives, those who do the marketing. They are complaining to their husbands about the prices. They are paying no attention to the tariff or the war in the Philippines, but they are insisting that the cost of food is too much, and they are asking their husbands and male relatives to vote for a change. These good housewives do not care which party is in power; there must be a reduction in the price of the necessities of life. In towns all over the state inquiry as to this feature of the political question shows that the women are exerting their influence to bring down the prices of food. They do not know that voting the democratic ticket will make prices lower, but, just like the men, they are holding the party in power responsible, and they may be able to change a good many votes, particularly in places where there is a large labor vote.

The [illegible] managers assert [illegible] many votes to their party. "The price of coal and wood is so high and everything on the market costs so much," said Mayor Berghoff, the democratic mayor of this city, "that we are bound to gain by it. If the conditions do not change in the next three weeks there will be a democratic landslide in Indiana that will keep the state democratic for a number of years."

FRANK HERING'S RECORD.

The republicans of the Thirteenth congressional district have dug up the political record of Frank E. Hering, the democratic nominee for congress. They find he was a republican in 1899, for free silver and Bryan in 1900, made socialistic speeches in 1901 and is now a democrat.

Levi R. Stookey, of Warsaw, who is a candidate for joint representative from Kosciusko and Whitley counties on the republican ticket, is visiting every precinct in both counties, though he has 1,000 plurality in his favor.

THERE IS DISSATISFACTION.

The project of building a new Lutheran hospital in Fort Wayne is threatened with failure owing to the fact that a large number of Lutherans are not satisfied with the manner in which the project has been undertaken. The ministers have the matter largely in charge and they are in favor of raising the money before taking any definite steps. On the other hand, many of the laymen favor the formation of an association before beginning the collection of funds, and until a compromise is effected, it is probable little progress will be made. A meeting of the committee having the matter in charge will be held this evening in St. Paul's school house on Barr street.

BISHOP WILL ORDAIN.

Charles Keyser, of Elkhart, will be ordained to the priesthood at the Cathedral this week by Bishop Alerding. On Thursday the young man will be ordained sub-deacon, on Friday he will be made deacon and on Saturday will be fully ordained to the priesthood. Father Keyser spent ten years at Notre Dame, Norwich and St. Mary's. He will be appointed assistant to Father Boeckelmann, at St. Vincent's church, in Elkhart, and will say his first mass at St. Vincent's church on Sunday, October 19.

THE WORST FORM.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat; by cleansing and sweetening the stomach, and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. Meyer Bros. & Co.

RAN AWAY WITH FIRST LOVE

MARION WOMAN LEAVES HER SECOND HUSBAND.

Repents and Will be Taken Back by Forgiving Spouse—General News of Indiana.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 7.—After many years absence Joseph Harrison has returned and claimed his old love, although she is now the wife of another. Miss Edna Bushwiller when nineteen years old fell in love with Joseph Harrison, when both were students at Taylor university, at Upland. The father of the girl objected, but when he learned that they had planned an elopement he consented to their marriage. One month from the day of marriage the husband was arrested on a charge of grand larceny, found guilty and sentenced to the Michigan City penitentiary for three years. His young and attractive wife remained true to him and when he was paroled she again joined him. He took her to London, where his relatives reside, but shortly after she reached England she wrote letters back to her parents telling them of cruel treatment, poverty and the terrible life of the wife of a gambler, thief and crook. Her relatives sent her transportation for her return home. Back at home again, Mrs. Harrison was soon the bright, dashing, comely woman previous to her marriage. A suit was filed for divorce, which was granted, and fifteen months ago Mrs Harrison was married to John Hale, an industrious and prosperous young man of this city, who provided an excellent home. All seemed content and happiness to both until Sunday night, when Harrison, the first love of Mrs. Hale, appeared. He asked for an interview with his former wife, which was granted. They finally went for a drive, but returned within an hour. Mrs. Hale declared to her husband that she would remain true and that she had no love for Harrison. Later in the evening, however, she left her home, ostensibly for a short trip to town. She has not been seen since. It was supposed that she had eloped with Harrison, and last night this view was confirmed when Mrs. Hale telegraphed to her husband in this city from New York stating that she had been deserted again by Harrison. She asked for forgiveness and the privilege of returning home. Transportation was sent to her.

BISHOP FILES DAMAGE SUIT.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 7.—Bishop Alerding, of Fort Wayne, of the Fort Wayne diocese of the Roman Catholic church, through State's Attorney George E. Clarke, filed suit in the circuit court yesterday against Architect C. A. Brehmer, of this city, and the American Surety company, of New York, to recover on a surety bond. Damages to the amount of $2,500 are asked. The case involves the construction of a brick church at Lebanon, Ind., upon ground belonging to the bishop. A contract was entered into with Mr. Brehmer, who was to erect the building for a consideration of $6,548 and furnish all the material. The complaint alleges the church was built according to contract, but that Mr. Brehmer failed to pay for all the material and parties from whom it was purchased had demanded payment from the bishop.

OPPOSE SUNDAY COLLISION.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 7.—Logansport church people are inaugurating a crusade against the public exhibition of a head-end collision between two railroad locomotives, which is planned to be given here next Sunday, and at the prayer meetings this week a sentiment is to be created and a protest formulated against the exhibition as a desecration of the Sabbath. The Baptist congregation already has passed resolutions in protest, averring that the exhibition will have a demoralizing tendency. The exhibition is being promoted by several Terre Haute men.

REMONSTRATORS IN FIGHT.

Scottsburg, Ind., Oct. 7.—The anti-saloon men won a victory yesterday afternoon by keeping out two saloons. Charles C. Smith gave notice that he would apply for license in two separate buildings. Two remonstrances were filed, signed by a majority of the voters of the township. After a hot contest the commissioners approved the remonstrance and Mr. Smith cannot secure a license for two years.

SMALLPOX AT BRISTOL.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 7.—The northern part of the county was thrown into a state of excitement yesterday morning when it became known that a smallpox victim had for hours been walking the streets of Bristol. John Jarvis, a prominent farmer living near Goshen, went to that place and was taken sick. He visited a physician and was immediately ordered to return to his home.

PUMPING STATION WRECKED.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 7.—The Greentown pumping station of the Chicago Gas company was partially wrecked by an explosion Sunday night. A compressor was thrown 500 feet and the roof was blown off the boiler house. Nobody was hurt.

THE NEWS OF THE POLICE

There was no police court this morning.

From the regular force Officers Borgman, Strodel, Trebra, Thomma and Lavanway were detailed on special duty at the fair grounds today. The regular special force is under the direction of George Swain and consists of Frank Roelle, deputy sheriff, and Officers P. J. Bulger, William Reardon, James Loughlin, Charles Maxfield, John Lonergan, Thomas Hunt, William Vincent, John Carll, William Cutshall, George Brower, James Cleary, F. C. Greider, H. C. Courdevey and John Eicks. Mr. Roelle will be in charge of the night watchmen and Mr. Swain will be the general superintendent during the week.

Any person finding himself shy about one open-faced and well mannered cow may find the same at 301 West Williams street, where a stray animal was housed, fed and milked last night.

Three cases of missing dogs were reported to the police station this morning and in each case the dog failing to answer roll call was a hunter. This leads the superintendent of police to observe that if owners of hunting dogs would take pains to keep their animals confined during the hunting season the police would be saved much annoyance and the dog owners much worry. Any man with a good looking gun and a hunting coat can engage the confidence of the first sensible hunting dog he meets and hunters are not so mindful of the rights of proprietorship as to shoot a good dog full of holes just because he wants to follow a good hunter into the field—and all hunters are good at this season of the year.

The patrol wagon was called last evening to do ambulance duty in conveying Mrs. J. W. Coblentz to the county jail for restraint. The unfortunate lady, who has been mentally afflicted for some time, arrived at the stage of raving insanity last night.

Mr. Swartz, who conducts a meat market at 2514 Calhoun street, reported that evil dispositioned boys had torn down his awning last night.

Reports of a burglary were received at the police department this morning, the burglars performing at Schoolcraft, Mich., and being supposed to have headed this way.

HIS LIFE IN PERIL.

"I just seemed to have gone all to pieces," writes Alfred Bee, of Welfare, Tex., "biliousness and a lame back had made life a burden. I couldn't eat or sleep and felt almost too worn out to work when I began to use Electric Bitters, but they worked wonders. Now I sleep like a top, can eat anything, have gained in strength and enjoy hard work." They give vigorous health and new life to weak, sickly, run-down people. Try them. THREE WEEKS IN A CAVE

MAN WANTED FOR MURDER HAS A DOLEFUL TIME.

Diet of Pawpaws, Raw Corn and Apples Grew Monotonous and He Has Surrendered.

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 7.—After three weeks of life in the woods, with nothing but the wet ground for a bed and the protection of caves and trees from storms and rain, Zack Smithson, murderer of George Boswell, has surrendered to Sheriff Cooper and Deputy Sel Brazier. Smithson was tired of the life he was compelled to lead in order to avoid arrest, but so great was his fear of lynching, he says, that he could not force himself to give himself up to justice before this time. After the murder he sought a cave on the Jonathan Stoner farm, two miles from a wagon road, and which Smithson says no man but himself knew about.

He spent the first three days and nights in that cavern, with nothing to eat. After that he roamed the deepest recesses of the woods in the western part of the county, with nothing to eat but apples, pawpaws and raw roasting ears. Only once did he have a fire, and that was built to dry his hosiery, he says.

He had several meals at his home during the last few days of last week and at that time made arrangements with his son to come to this city and inform the officers of his intention to surrender.

The plan was for Smithson and the sheriff to meet at the Pleasant Hill graveyard at 11 o'clock Sunday night, and a more lonesome night and place could not have been chosen. The darkness in the country was "thick enough to slice," the officers say, and Smithson evidently didn't enjoy the idea of being arrested in a graveyard, for he started toward town before the appointed time, and met the sheriff and his deputy.

Warm wraps were provided him and he was otherwise cared for.

WILLIAM R. HEARST ACCEPTS.

New York, Oct. 7.—In a speech yesterday, accepting the democratic nomination for congress in the Eleventh district, William Randolph Hearst announced himself as in favor of public ownership of certain public utilities, specifying, as a natural beginning, railroads and telegraphs. Existing conditions, he declared, made it advisable for the government to take possession of and manage the anthracite coal mines for the people's benefit.

He favored the election of United States senators by popular vote as a means to the end of dealing with monopolies that "compel the payment of extortionate prices by the helpless public."

HANNA CHALLENGES JOHNSON.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 7.—In his speech at Steubenville yesterday Senator Hanna challenged Mayor Tom Johnson to a debate on the tariff, the subject to be discussed from a strictly economical standpoint and with no reference to monopolies. Senator Hanna's challenge was telegraphed to Mayor Johnson at Wooster and he immediately replied that he would accept the challenge and would debate the subject in any way or at any time that Senator Hanna might name.

PRICE OF OIL IS HIGHER.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Standard oil monopoly is taking advantage of the coal famine to increase its profits. An official announcement was made today by the company that the price of petroleum had been advanced from 8 to 8½ cents a gallon. The production of petroleum in the United States last year was 2,396,975,700 gallons, of which 1,315,249,000 gallons was for domestic consumption. If the advance applied to crude petroleum it would mean an additional revenue to the Standard Oil company of $6,536,225 a year. Only about 500,000,000 gallons, however, will be affected by the increase, so the Standard Oil company at this time is increasing its annual income about $2,500,000.

FAIR GATES OPEN

coach and draft horses from the Lafayette stock farm in personal charge of the owner, J. Crouch. In addition to these many exhibitors show a smaller number of animals.

Owing to the delay in arrival of exhibits it may be that there will be no judging in any of the departments until tomorrow. R. M. Hamer, of Lafayette, superintendent of Purdue university farm, will be the judge of the cattle department; George Murray, of Polo, Ill., will pass upon the merits of the coach and draft horses, and Joseph Cunningham, of Peru, is judge in the swine department.

Hundreds of folding chairs were placed in the grand stand this morning, and directly opposite the center of the stand, within the space enclosed by the track, has been erected a temporary stage for the aerialists and other performers who will entertain the crowds at intervals during the week.

FROWNS GAVE WAY

A frowning sky, followed by an apparently uncompromising rain, chilled and dampened the spirits of the fair promoters this morning until about 9 o'clock, when old Sol again asserted his supremacy and gave a bedraggled populace another promise of fair weather. Oppressed by many vicissitudes, emanating chiefly from the weather bureau, the fair association has managed to keep a stiff upper lip and went along with the arrangements for a big blow-out this week just the same as though rain and wet grounds had no place in the dictionary. The show, they said, would be up to the standard and above it, whether there was any attendance or not, and the premiums will be paid whether there is a cent taken in at the gate or not.

It is really surprising, and to those not aware by personal observation, almost incredible to know of the really fair condition of the grounds. After three weeks of almost continuous rain one would think that the track would be a sea of mud and the grounds an ocean of water and mire in various stages of offensiveness, but that is not the case.

SOME MUD THERE.

There is mud, to be sure, in places, but the grounds are so well drained and the track so thoroughly constructed that, with the exception of bad places in spots all portions of the grounds are easily accessible on foot, and without the necessity of rubbers or overshoes, either. The low places have been filled with gravel, walks have been constructed where necessary, the grass is low and the general condition of the grounds is so vastly better than could be expected that only a visit will prove convincing. The track, as everyone knows, is a clay one, lightly sanded, and having been kept free from use during the rainy spells, is smooth and firm and in excellent condition. It has the reputation, anyway, of being the quickest drying mile track in the country.

When the time for opening the gates came this morning everything was in readiness. The stables were filled with the fleetest horses and the sheds were filled with the finest collection of cattle ever shown in a group in Allen county—and that is saying a good deal.

TODAY'S RACE CARD.

On the card today for the track were the following races, with the entries named:

BACK FROM HAWAIIAN TOUR

SENATORS BURTON, FOSTER AND MITCHELL RETURN.

Found the Islands in a Deplorable State of Commercial and Industrial Depression.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—United States Senators Burton, of Kansas, Foster, of Washington, and Mitchell, of Oregon, have returned from the Hawaiian Islands, where they have been on a tour of investigation as a sub-committee of the senate committee on Pacific islands and Porto Rico. They were accompanied by ex-Senator Thurston, of Nebraska.

No matter connected with the relations of the federal government of the islands was ignored by the committee. Special attention was given to the labor questions and the claims of Queen Liluokalani for the loss of the crown lands and the annual revenues from the same. Special attention was also given to the question as to the advisability of so amending the organic act as to require the organization of county and municipal organizations and much testimony was taken on this question.

Referring to the present industrial conditions of the islands, Senator Mitchell said:

"Contrary to the conditions of great commercial and business prosperity now prevailing on the mainland throughout the United States we regret to be compelled to say that we found the islands in a state of very great commercial and industrial depression caused, it is generally claimed, by the low price of sugar and the scarcity and high price of labor."

Mr. Mitchell stated that a spirit of harmony characterized all the proceedings of the sub-committee, the members of which were shown every consideration by the people of the islands.

LADIES' BAND HAS GONE.

Waterloo, Ind., Oct. 7.—The Ladies' Military band, of this city, has gone to Washington, D. C., where it will lead the delegation from Toledo, O., representing Forsythe post, of that city, in the G. A. R. parade.

This band is the pride of Waterloo. It is composed of women from the best families in the community. They have new uniforms of red, with gilt trimming, and red caps. Mrs. Ella Reed is the leader of the band, and she plays a cornet, which was made by the C. G. Conn factory for Liberati, the band leader, but was presented to Mrs. Reed by Mr. Conn.

The members of the band are: Ella G. Reed, Mabel Reed, Blanche Reed, Edna Henning, Lida Stage, Lelah Little, Daisy Smurr, Lulu Knisely, Winnie Detrick, Vinnie Meyer, Nettie Rickel, Cora Kiplinger, C. V. Reed and Master Lynn Reed. Master Lynn Reed is the drum major, and is 7 years of age. C. V. Reed is the business manager of the band and has a number of engagements booked ahead for the band. The band was organized in 1897.

GIRL TAKING A LONG SLEEP.

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 7.—Miss Dora Meek, aged 17, a waitress, lay down at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28, to take a nap, and she is still sleeping. She has never been aroused sufficiently to swallow more than two tablespoonfuls of water or soup at a time. She has not been even partially aroused more than once a day, and each time before the third spoonful would be given her she would lapse into sound sleep. Several physicians have examined her and vainly attempted to arouse her. Sunday ice was rubbed on her spine, but it had no effect. Physicians ascribe her condition to hysteria and nervous prostration. Yesterday she was moved several squares in an open wagon without being aroused.

CALLED FOR ASSESSMENT.

A circular letter calling for the first instalment of 10 per cent. on the price of the lots of the Commercial Land Improvement company has been mailed to purchasers of lots. The letter tells of the securing of the Fort Wayne Steel Foundry company and the Knott-Van Arnam company, fulfilling the conditions upon which the lots were bought.

Charles W. Wall, foreman of the jury which convicted Snyder, the millionaire St. Louis briber, was formerly a resident of Fort Wayne and will be remembered by many citizens of this city. He was connected with the drug house of Meyer Bros., and is now financial manager of the big St. Louis house of that company. Mr. Wall visited in Fort Wayne a few months ago.

Summer Safeguards

It is the duty of the head of every household to provide against the health-perils peculiar to summer. Promptness in the treatment of these maladies would often prevent serious illness, perhaps death.—MUNYON.

Munyon's Homoepathic Home Remedies are the surest safeguards against disease. If they are not in the house they should be bought and kept on hand. In case of sudden development of the symptoms of any trouble the proper cure for that trouble should immediately be obtained at the druggist's.

For indigestion and dyspepsia take Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure. For headache from heat, or caused by nervousness or prostration, take Munyon's Headache Cure—it will cure in three minutes. For biliousness, jaundice and liver troubles Munyon's Liver Cure affords quick and permanent relief. For disorders of the blood, and eruptions that are chiefly annoying in summer, take Munyon's Blood Cure. Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is felt usually in one to three hours and in a few days cures entirely.

Munyon's Pile Ointment speedily and positively cures all forms of piles and is especially efficacious in alleviating the pain intensified during hot weather. If you are subject to colics, cramps and diarrhoea always be fortified with Munyon's D. D. and C. cure. Munyon's Constipation Cure has relieved thousands of the most obstinate cases where everything else has failed.

A separate cure for each disease; at all druggists, 25c a vial.

NOW A BRITISH CAPTAIN.

A. W. Lewis, formerly private secretary to R. T. McDonald, went, two years ago, to South Africa, where he enlisted in the British army. A letter today from him says he has advanced, through successive promotions, to be a captain in the British army. He also wears the Victorian cross, which was given for gallantry in action.

CHAPTER XXV.

WHEN I related the whole confession to Miss Stetson, a new light slowly entered her beautiful eyes. In conclusion she laid her head alongside of that of the sick man and sobbed.

A week after the arrest of Dr. Squires I was watching by the bedside of my master. Suddenly he opened his eyes and stared hard at me. A look of recognition seemed to enter them. I did not speak, but returned his glance steadily.

"You here?" he said suddenly. "What are you doing here?"

I thought he was wandering in his mind, and so did Miss Stetson, who smoothed out his hair and said gently:

"You mustn't talk, Charles. You must rest quietly."

But he did not notice her. His eyes were still fixed upon me.

"Why is it we meet so often?" he added. "Are you dogging my footsteps?"

"No," I replied, not knowing what else to say.

"When I met you that first night, I gave you one-third of the goods and told you I never wanted to meet you again. Why do you persist in running across me, or is it accident?"

"Yes," I replied, beginning to divine his meaning. "It is pure accident."

"And I saved you that other night from the doctor's hounds. That should make you a little indebted to me. If you appreciate that, you will never meet me again."

"I hope I never shall."

I spoke in earnest then, for it was not my master who was talking, but the hypnotized robber and burglar whom I had twice encountered in his midnight prowlings.

The doctor, who had come in, said he was wandering in his mind, but I knew differently. His other self, which Dr. Squires had created out of him, was talking. Would that other self predominate and possess the body of Charles Goddard, my master?

He soon relapsed into his former quietness. About midnight the doctor said a change would soon come. We watched critically every line of his face and forehead.

"There are sigus of his recovering consciousness," the doctor said finally. "He will probably remember nothing about all that has occured. His hypnotic state is all a blank to him, and it must never be mentioned to him. He is as pure and innocent of crime as any of us. Let him never think otherwise. The whole story can be hushed up. If he knew it all, the shock might kill him."

The climax of the fever was reached shortly after 2 o'clock in the morning. The breathing slowly lost its laboriousness, and the hands grew moist and soft. The eyelids finally fluttered and opened. He looked around a moment in silence; then he said softly:

"Belle, dear, I've had such horrible dreams, but they were nothing but dreams, were they?"

"No, Charles; nothing but dreams—nothing but horrible dreams."

She bent over him with admirable composure, but a tear trickled down and splashed on the pillow as she kissed his lips.

THE END.

A Strange Dream.

As I rode along in one of the suburban tram cars I passed a cottage wherein a strange thing happened awhile ago. Near by lived an old man who had received many kindnesses from the true hearted mistress of the cottage, who took compassion upon his necessity. Early one morning this lady woke in great affright. She had dreamed that the old man was calling her in frantic haste to come and help him. She looked at the clock and noted the time. It was 4:30. Later on the lifeless body of the old man was found in a well. The medical opinion was that it must have got into the water at about 4:30 that morning. That was their independent testimony before they had been told of the curious experience of the woman. The distance of the well from the house made it impossible that she could have heard the old man cry, if he really did cry. How, then, can one explain the incident? I might relate other facts similar in their nature, all showing that there is in the world more mystery than we have yet comprehended.—London Standard.

Imitation New Potatoes.

Here is a way in which imitation new potatoes are made: Late in the season, after the other crops are out of the way, the gardener plants a crop of late and good keeping potatoes. These potatoes are dug and buried in heaps in the open field and left until spring opens and the new potato season arrives. At the proper time the heaps are opened and the potatoes dipped into a boiling solution to curl the skin. The effect of dipping any potato, no matter how old, into this boiling lye solution is to crack and curl the skin, and at the same time it hardens or makes the potato much more firm, so that its resemblance to a new potato is so near that it would be hard to pick out the impostor, from appearance alone, from a basket of the genuine article.—London Globe.

"HI! I'd like to see me!"

The small boys looked at Master Wat with admiring eyes.

"You chaps can go and be taught by a burgher if you like, but not me."

"Won't your father lick you, Wat?"

"Shut up! He's got no father, and his mother never licks him."

Wat walked off, with his nose in the air, and just around the corner he ran squarely into the schoolmaster who was to take the place temporarily of the regular teacher, who had broken his leg. Wat sniffed impudently and would have walked past, but Jan de Jough put out a hand to stop him—put it out with diffidence, hesitatingly, almost as an inferior might do.

"It is time for school, Master Thouis," said he.

"I am not going to school today."

"And tomorrow?"

"Not tomorrow."

"May I know why?"

Wat looked to one side and another, rather abashed, and then insolently at the young schoolmaster.

"White men," said he, "should not be taught by—by black men."

He ran away and did not see the flush of anger and sorrow that reddened De Jough's olive cheeks. The schoolmaster looked after him for a second and then slowly proceeded to open the school.

This happened in Natal, where are many men of different races—English, Dutch descendants, Portuguese, Malays, descendants of the coolies brought in old times from the East Indies as plantation workers, and Kaffirs. So there are many social ranks and grades. Wat was an English boy, brought out to the colony when a baby, and as the English rank highest in the country and never would think of mingling intimately with the other races Wat, being only twelve years old, had a rather exaggerated idea of his own and his people's worth.

Jan de Jough was not a black man, though his skin was dark, like most Italians. He was the descendant of Dutch and Portuguese ancestors, who long, long ago had owned the country before the Englishmen took it as the spoil of war, just as America today has come into possession of the Philippines.

Mr. de Jough was downhearted. Most of the boys were of English parentage, and if Wat, their leader, rebelled he foresaw a falling off in attendance and the consequent loss of his first position, his first stepping stone. He was right. The boys, small as they were, were impudent and unruly, and Jan dismissed the school despondently.

Meantime Wat, for sufficient reason, did not go straight home. He doubted his reception by his mother might not be altogether cordial and appreciative. It was hot, as it usually is on the coast of the Indian ocean. One advantage the heat brings to the boys is that one can go swimming any day almost all the year round. Wat, wandering along by the surf, soon felt the sun oppressive, and when he came to a cove which he and his chums knew well as a swimming place where the surf did not break too violently he naturally came to the conclusion that a bath would be a good thing to break the lonely monotony of the morning. He was, like most boys in warm countries, a first rate swimmer, and he had no hesitation in plunging into the huge Indian ocean even when quite alone.

He left his clothes on the beach near some rocks without fear of pilfering wanderers, for the cove was some distance from the town and a spot where few ever wandered. He ran in with a dash, paused to catch an incoming breaker just at the right moment before it broke, dived beneath its crest, swam vigorously under water for a minute and came up puffing and blowing on the glorious swell of the waves, with the sun glowing down upon him in warm hearted approval.

Wat turned on his back and let himself be rocked luxuriously. One moment he would be lifted up so that he could look far out to sea or inland at the vast extent of greenery, and the next he was down in a great hollow, with nothing before his eyes but the cloudless blue above and the glassy waters reaching up at his sides like precipitous mountains.

"Poof—oof—ow!" cried the boy. "This is better than a stuffy schoolroom, with a low burgher making you study the idiotic history of the country. He had a cheek to think he could teach English boys. I wish he was here, and I'd teach him to swim. Wouldn't I duck him? Oh, no! Certainly not!"

He was like a fish. He reveled and played in the sea like one of its own inhabitants. A home bred boy of a colder climate, used to one or two months' swimming in the summer holidays, would not have believed a twelve-year-old youngster could be so much at ease on the breast of the fathomless ocean. Wat struck out to deeper water, with a bold, swift side stroke and soon was standing, monarch of all he surveyed, on a great black rock which broke the force of the waves as they strove to dash, with headlong strength, into the quiet cove.

As he stood there, with joyous eyes, facing the ocean defiantly, as his race's eyes have done for centuries and do today, sudden interest increased their wide brightness. A quarter mile out from the beach of the little bay, but only half that distance from the rock on which he stood, lay on a reef the dark timbers of a recent wreck. Wat remembered hearing of a little bark rushing [illegible] reef in a gale [illegible] set [illegible] until now. At once he was filled with the desire to explore, and without a moment's hesitation he plunged into the deeper outside waters and swam for the hulk. It did not take him long to cover the 200 or 300 yards to the wreck. When the vessel was wrecked, monster waves, driven in by a landward gale, had broken over the reef, but now the sea about the dead ship was comparatively quiet, and on the lee side Wat had no difficulty in climbing aboard.

Here were new and exhilarating delights of the rarest sort. To explore strange corners, to stand waist deep—now the tide was out—in the skipper's own cabin and, poking about with fingers and toes, unearth strange things, worthless now, but interesting; to peek and pry with an excited heart in the hope that he might light upon a wonderful find—perhaps treasure overlooked, perhaps— At the thought of perhaps seeing something ghastly, although he knew all the crew had been saved, Wat suddenly felt lonely and afraid. He ran quickly up on the broken deck. He was startled to note how long by the sun his walk and his swim and his explorations had taken. Now he felt hungry, and he knew it must be long past time at his mother's house. Tiffin? He looked again at the sun and the shadows of the rocks upon the sea and calculated correctly that it must be 2 o'clock and school would be coming out in an hour.

Wat ran to jump overboard. His foot was on the broken rail, and his hands were raised to dive. In an instant he would have been in the water, when he staggered back, white as flour, shaking at the nearness of his escape. Slowly, with lazy complacency, with hardly a flick of its great tail, there swam beneath the boy most leisurely a great shark. It moved about close to the surface, its dorsal fin sometimes above the water, like a sail, and its cold, cruel, vicious, hungry eyes stared up at the truant. Wat sank down, sick and faint.

He had been foolish, worse than foolish. Time and again he had been warned, with the other boys, about the sharks, which, though they do not actually infest these waters, are by no means rare. The cove was comparatively safe, but beyond it there was always danger. It was the old story of the wolf. "Shark!" had been cried so often to young Wat that he paid little attention to it. Now he was trapped.

After a time Wat got up and looked cautiously overboard. The shark was not there, but when he ran to the other side it was there. The monster knew his meal was safely cornered. Round and round he swam, lazily and unconcernedly enjoying the warmth of the sun near the surface. Wat was unable to withdraw his eyes from it. It fascinated him as a snake does a monkey. Now and then the fish would roll over on its back, and then Wat would hide his eyes, shuddering at the sight of that hideous mouth and those gleaming teeth. Once, when the shark had been on guard for an hour or more, it paused at the seaward end of the wreck and then swam slowly outward. Hope sprung in the boy's heart, and he slipped quietly to the other end, intending to glide noiselessly into the water and strike out for shore. If he had done so, he might have got safely away while the shark continued to swim about, thinking its prey was still there, but Wat had not the great courage to risk it. He hesitated, and in another two or three minutes it was too late. The brute came back, and Wat fancied as it resumed its methodical watch that it looked up at him mockingly.

The truant grew hysterical with fear and horror. He was quite able to realize his position. If he swam shoreward, he would meet a certain, cruel death, perhaps the most horrible of deaths. But the cove and the hulk lay far below the sea road, and between that road and the ocean were great masses of trees and jungle which shut out the sea from land passengers. Not once in a week perhaps might any one seek that secluded spot, while ships passed far, far out. Thus there was little chance of speedy help and an almost inevitable end by starvation and exposure, for, although the days are warm, the nights in Natal are often cold, and Wat was naked to all the chill winds of the sea.

When his hysteria grew uncontrollable, his moans and tears gave place to loud sobs, but still the placid sentry of the hulk swam round and round. The sobs at length ceased, and in their stead came loud cries which soon were shrill resounding shrieks. But the shark swam round and round till the truant was crazed, driven almost to madness by that re[illegible]s watch.

"At length toward [illegible] wh[illegible] the sun was [illegible] by a long, full toned "Hello!" Wat ran up and down, jumping and throwing his arms in the air, shouting "Help! Shark! Help! Shark!" with all his strength and all his might. To the highest rock a figure ascended, the sun shining fully upon it, and Wat recognized the humble student, the poor schoolteacher, Jan de Jough, whom he had so grossly insulted in the morning. The boy's heart sank.

"I called him a black man," he thought, "and he isn't, and I tried to break up the school. He'll go away and leave me to die, and nobody will ever know."

Still he shouted and cried and pleaded, and the schoolmaster, to his great joy, instead of going away, came along from rock to rock to a promontory where his words could be distinctly heard.

"I don't understand," cried De Jough. "Are you hurt? Can't you swim ashore?"

"A big shark is swimming around the wreck," yelled Wat, "and I can't get away from it! Oh, Mr. de Jough, forgive me and save me!"

The schoolmaster did not reply for a moment. He was startled. There was no small boat nearer than the harbor, three hours away. There and back would be six hours at the very least, and by that time it would be cold and dark, and Wat might get so crazed with cold and terror and loneliness—might grow delirious, in fact—that he would jump overboard to swim ashore, when his fate would be awful. These things the master thought of in a moment, thought of something else for a moment, just the value of his own life, thought for not a single moment of that boy's attempt to raise a mutiny in the school, and the next moment he was stripped to the skin.

"Cheer up, Wat, my boy!" he shouted, as if Wat was a good comrade instead of an insolent pupil. "Keep a good heart. I'm coming."

He was coming! Wat could not reply. How could Mr. de Jough pass out if he could not pass in? He looked and saw the master on his knees praying, and Wat knelt also.

When De Jough rose up, he had a long bladed open clasp knife in his mouth and immediately dived into the water. The shark felt the vibration caused by that plunge and darted a little way in, at once on the alert. Wat, still kneeling, watched with clasped hands and anxious eyes. The head of the master appeared, his strong arms striking out resolutely. A few yards he came, when the monster detected him and made a rush. For a moment Jan de Jough paused, then suddenly dived, and the next instant the shark leaped clear of the water and, sinking again, left behind it on the surface a great red stain. De Jough came up. Wat saw the enraged shark's fin near the surface, saw the gleam of its white belly as it turned on its back so that its hideous mouth could bite, saw Jan dive once more and then saw the great fish roll over in a mess of blood and slowly sink. Jan had killed the shark in its own element. Wat leaped then, with a glad shout of thanks, and in a short time was safe on shore.

"I thank you," he cried, clinging to the student's side, "and, Mr. de Jough, I was an awful cad to say that this morning. Lick me as much as you please, and I won't cry out. You can kill me if you like. I'm ashamed of myself."

De Jough only pressed his hand and smiled.

"We'll try to forget all that, Wat," said he. "But, though I am not a black man and couldn't help it if I were, yet it was a black man who saved you from the shark."

"How?"

"Because a Kaffir on the coast, a famous diver, taught me that trick, without which I could not have saved you. So, you see, Wat, it is unwise to sneer at any person of any race, black, brown or white, for it is more than likely that person may be able, knowing what you don't know, to be of service to you."

Wat bowed his head, abashed.

"Mr. de Jough," he said after awhile, "I'm coming to school tomorrow, and—were the boys rude?"

"A little."

"Well," said Master Wat, "they won't be any more. They know me, and I like you, Mr. de Jough."

PROHIBITION TICKET FILED

TACIT ENDORSEMENT OF THE SUPREME JUDGES.

Party Has No Candidates for the Supreme or Appellate Court Benches on Ticket.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The prohibitionists yesterday filed at the governor's office the name of their nominees for state office, but in the names there are no nominees for the one supreme judge nor the six appellate judges. This is construed by some as a quiet indorsement of the judges in office. Recently the supreme and appellate courts held good the written authority to sign remonstrances against the issuance of liquor licenses.

The Anti-Saloon league and other temperance forces have been cooperating under this decision to drive one hundred saloons out of business each month. The temperance forces generally speak with approval of the attitude of the courts on the liquor question.

The republican politicians are not boasting of the work of the courts in this line for the reason, it is said, that the liquor forces might become combative. A republican state officer said today that if the election were close, the prohibitionist support of the republican nominees for supreme and appellate judges might elect them, while the rest of the ticket would be defeated.

QUESTION RAISED.

The filing of the ticket raised a question on the legality of such a name as J. Levi Lord. the nominee for auditor of state, or J. Lewis Speicher, nominee for state statistician. The blank certificates have the following directions: "Insert first name in full, thus: William C. Smith, not W. C. Smith."

Charles E. Wilson, the governor's private secretary, advised the prohibitionist state chairman, who filed the ticket, that he had better be on the safe side by seeing the attorney general about the names. The attorney general's office advised him that J. Levi and J. Lewis are all right.

The ticket filed is as follows:

Secretary of State—James M. Dungan, of Indianapolis.

Auditor of State—J. Levi Lord, of Mays.

Treasurer of State—Preston Ryder, of Columbus.

Attorney General—Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland.

Clerk of the Supreme Court—Chas. F. Holler, of South Bend.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Andrew F. Mitchell, of Bloomingdale.

State Geologist—Earl Stinespring, of Lafayette.

State Statistician—J. Lewis Speicher, of Urbana.

BRYAN COMMENDS ROOSEVELT.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 7.—In a statement made last evening, W. J. Bryan says President Roosevelt should be commended for his efforts to settle the miners' strike. He suggests, however, that since the operators decline to arbitrate, the president's hands are tied, and urges him to call an extra session of congress. Five measures, Mr. Bryan says, should be recommended for passage. Summarrized, these are, in Mr. Bryan's language:

"A law establishing a national board of arbitration, consisting of three to five members to consider and report on all controversies between corporations engaged in interstate commerce and their employes; a law abolishing government by injunction; a law that will discriminate between the natural made man, created by the Almighty, and the corporate giant created by legislation; a law taking the tariff off coal; a law which will prevent railroads engaged in interstate commerce from operating coal mines except for the purpose of supplying fuel for their own engines."

PLANT THAT TRAPS PREY.

But a few months ago an English naturalist named Dunstan was walking near the bank of Lake Nicaragua when suddenly he heard his dog howling at a little distance behind him. Rushing to the animal's assistance, he found that it was in the grasp of three black and greasy throngs, which had coiled themselves around its nec kand had torn it so badly that blood was flowing in several places. After some difficulty the naturalist freed the dog and in a few days its wounds were healed.

The throngs which imprisoned the animal were the principal portions of a plant which is known among the natives of Nicaragua as the "devil's trap." It is composed of black, flexible, leafless branches, which secrete a viscious fluid.

SHATTERED NERVES

THE NERVES are among the first organisms of the human system to suffer when the blood becomes impoverished or impure. They vibrate with the fever of impeded circulation and gradually lose tissue until that state of physical collapse ensues that is known as nervous prostration. The nourishment the nerves need is in the blood, and only when the blood is ridden of its disease-breeding substances can the nerves be restored to their normal, healthy condition.

Leroux's Blood Remedy

Is a noted nerve nourisher. Filtering through the blood, as it does, it removes the alien agencies of disease and stimulates the circulation to the important work of building of the run-down nerve tissues. With the return of the blood to its ordinary purity and purpose comes the complete restoration of the nerve functions.

TWO BOTTLES CURED HIM.

THE LEROUX MEDICINE CO., TOLEDO, O.:
About nine months ago I took sick and had a high fever, and the doctor naturally treated me for that fever, and during the treatment my face began to swell and break out in terrible shape. I asked the doctor what that meant. He said I was badly blood poisoned, and kept on the treatment until I got worse and worse. My face was so badly swollen I could hardly see during that time. A friend of mine visited me and asked me what was the matter. I told him I was blood poisoned. He said that he heard Mr. Leroux had a wonderful blood purifier. "Why don't you try a bottle?" I took his advice and sent for one; I used it and was astonished at the result; it diminished the swelling and soreness rapidly; after using the second bottle I thought I was a new man altogether, and never felt so good since my sickness.
I cannot recommend Leroux's Infallible Remedy too highly.

had nothing to give out beyond the simple statement that the situation so far as the miners were concerned was unchanged. A few striking mine workers gathered about headquarters, but they soon left for their homes when they found there was nothing new in the situation.

APPROVED AND CONDEMNED.

The action of Governor Stone in sending all the troops to the strike region is both approved and condemned. The coal company officials and others who hold the same views as the operators think the governor has done the proper thing, and express the hope that the great struggle will soon come to an end. They predict that with protection for the men who want to work there will be no trouble in getting a sufficient number of men to produce enough coal to relieve the situation so far as the threatened fuel famine is concerned.

The talk among the strikers as the result of the governor's action is even more firm for holding out than it has been at any time since the suspension was inaugurated. The leaders say they look upon the struggle now as a general one of capital against labor, and maintain that with the help of organized labor the country over they can stay away from the mines until the operators are compelled through public opinion to yield a point. While the miners generally condemn the calling of the troops, they say they feel that in the end it will be a help to them.

UP TO THE MINE OWNERS.

They recognize the fact that great pressure was brought to bear on Governor Stone to send his entire military force into the coal fields and now that he has done it, the question of coal or no coal this winter, they argue, is "up to the mine owners." The presidents of the coal carrying railroads told President Roosevelt last Friday that with military protection they can satisfy the public demand for coal. The unionists feel confident the operators cannot make good their promise without conceding something to the men. President Mitchell's remark to the correspondent of the Associated Press last night that the military power of the United States could not make the men go to work if they did not want to, was repeated today by every leader or miner spoken to. They pointed to the statements made by different authorities that since the troops came into the Wyoming region the coal production has not increased, and that very few additional men have returned to work.

None of the additional troops ordered out have arrived here, and no one seems to know when they will come or where they will be placed. It is said that the headquarters of one of the three brigades will be established here.

The borough council of Plymouth, at its meeting held last night, passed a resolution with one dissenting vote protesting against the presence of troops in the borough. A battalion of the Ninth regiment was placed in that community yesterday.

The borough of Plymouth today made an attempt through the county court here to prevent the operation of the North American and Sterling washeries at Plymouth. Proceedings were brought asking for an injunction restraining the companies from operating the washeries on the ground that the culm, dirt and sediment from these places is dumped into the borough sewer, thus obstructing its flow. The court refused to enjoin the companies from operating their plants, but granted a preliminary injunction against their dumping the culm and dirt into the river.

The court fixed Oct. 13 as the date for hearing argument to make the injunction permanent.

WILL ALL BE ON DUTY.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—Major General Miller has ordered Colonel Elliott, assistant adjutant general of the division, on duty at the adjutant general's office in this city to direct the movements of the national guard. The entire state military force was ordered out last night by Governor Stone and Colonel Elliott expects to have every regiment in the strike territory before midnight. The guard will be distributed by regiments over the anthracite regions for the purpose of protecting the non-union men who desire to work and to suppress tumults and riots if they should occur.

General Miller and Adjutant General Stewart went to Washington this morning to attend the national encampment of the G. A. R. The canvas and other camp equipage for the soldiers was loaded on a special train last night and will be sent to the strike territory as soon as Colonel Elliott disposes of the troops.

General Gobin and three members of his staff, who were at the council of war at the executive mansion last night at which it was decided to call out the guard, returned to Shenandoah this morning.

Governor Stone declines to make any statement giving his reasons for ordering the troops on duty. He says the formal orders explain the situation fully.

Col. Willis J. Hulings, of Oil City, has been ordered to take command of the second brigade in the absence of General Wiley, who is in Kansas. Colonel Hulings left here at noon for Mt. Carmel, where he will be joined by the second brigade staff.

Col. James Barrett, of the Tenth regiment, was called here as a witness in an election case in the Dauphin county court and will not get away before night.

HOUSE IS DYNAMITED.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Kuklewicz, of Brownsville, near here, called on General Gobin at headquarters this morning and reported to him that her home was partly destroyed by a dynamite explosion about 1 o'clock this morning. She said the explosion set fire to the house and between the fire and the wreck caused by the explosion the damage to the house is so great that she was compelled to move out with her family. It was reported to the general that the explosion was determined upon by the Lithuanian local of Brownsville. Provost Marshal Farquhar, in command of a squad from the second city troop, went to Brownsville this morning to make an investigation. Kuklewicz is employed at Shenandoah colliery.

In speaking of the general orders issued last night in connection with the calling out of the entire guard General Gobin says he desires to call special attention to the following clause:

"He will arrest all persons engaging in acts of violence and intimidation and hold them under guard until their release will not endanger the public peace."

This, he says, will dispose of hearings before justices of the peace in the matter of these arrests and ought to have a good effect.

AFTER THE SALOONKEEPER.

Yesterday morning at police court Charles Stecker was fined about $42 for firing a rock through the saloon window of Peter Michaels on Sunday night, after he had been ejected. Today Mr. Stecker retaliated by filing two affidavits against Michaels in Bullermann's court. One affidavit charges selling liquor on Sunday and another charges a violation of the Nicholson law in allowing others than members of his family to remain in his saloon. Mrs. Stecker, a very sensible talking woman, is the instigator of the later suits. Her argument for law and her defense for her action is that one violator of the law should be held equally amenable with the other and she insists that there is not a particle of malice back of her prosecution—and she talks like it, too.

MR. LISCHEY SKINNED 'EM.

The board of works this afternoon awarded the contract for furnishing young trees for transplanting in the parks to Aaron Lischey, one of the bidders at yesterday's opening of proposals. Mr. Lischey, who is an old soldier, a pension agent, an attorney, a candidate for justice of the peace, is also a nursery man and in making his bid for furnishing trees complied with all the necessary requirements. He will furnish 250 clover leafed maples, 225 horse chestnut trees, 25 oak leafed beech, 50 other young trees for the gross sum of $100. His bid was over $70 gross lower than that of any of the other bidders.

MAY AMPUTATE ARM.

Gladys, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Paff, living in Spencerville, was brought to St. Joseph hospital today suffering from a compound fracture of the left forearm and complications. Sunday evening the child was thrown from a horse which she was riding from pasture. The X-rays will be used to determine the exact extent of the child's injuries. It is feared that amputation may be necessary.

BUSINESS SESSIONS BEGIN

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION GETS TO WORK.

Committees Appointed and Reports Are Heard—Will Petition Secretary Shaw.

The principal business at this morning's session of the International Union of Stationary Firemen was the adoption of a resolution, asking the secretary of the treasury, Leslie M. Shaw, that the pay of firemen employed in federal buildings of the United States be made proportionate to the size of the city in which they live. The cost of living in small cities is much less than in large cities, but the wage scale is practically the same all over. The union has been given to understand that a petition of that character would receive favorable consideration, and that the increase would be provided for in the next appropriation. There are about 600 members of the union employed in federal buildings in the United States.

It has been decided to continue the annual conventions, but in the future the expenses of the delegates will be paid out of the treasury of the union. Heretofore the locals have paid the expenses and it is expected that the new order of things will result in a much larger convention. Invitations were received from Milwaukee, Chicago, San Francisco and Rochester for the 1903 convention, but the place of meeting will not be decided upon until near the close of the convention.

The following committees were appointed today: On resolutions, by-laws, ways and means, officers' reports, welfare of organization and the eight-hour agitation. Several business matters of minor importance were up for discussion.

This afternoon Secretary Shamp presented a partial report, in which he stated that there were at present 172 local cities under the brotherhood banner and the condition of the different branches is most prosperous, the growth in the past year being very large. Secretary Shamp recommended the formation of state districts, similar to the miners' organizations, and the report will probably be favorably acted upon.

The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock and boarded special cars and were taken over the lines of the traction company, including a ride to Robison park. The committee on entertainment has provided a fine program for the amusemnt of the visitors. This evening there will be a smoker and entertainment in Randall hall, and on Thursday evening the delegates will form a theater party to the Temple. The program also includes an inspection of the court house, a visit to the fair and other features.

The state convention of the firemen held a separate session yesterday afternoon and adopted an entirely new constitution and by-laws. The following officers were elected:

President—John C. Mitchell, Fort Wayne.

Vice President—D. V. Girton, Brazil.

Secretary-Treasurer—J. C. Agnew, Hammond.

Executive Officers—W. S. Wirick, Logansport, and J. Newby, Terre Haute.

Finance Committee—Joseph O'Donnell, Whiting; W. S. Wirick, Logansport, and J. Newby, Terre Haute.

ABOUT THE COURT HOUSE.

The superior court was occupied today in finishing hearing the evidence in the Hursh-Grubb case and entertaining the arguments. The case went to the jury about 4 o'clock.

Charles Methley was taken to Richmond this morning in charge of Joseph Barva and a son of Superintendent Turflinger, both personal friends.

J. M. E. Riedel has filed a plat in the recorder's office describing an addition to the city, situated east of St. Joseph river and west of the feeble minded school.

There has been some difficulty experienced with the file for photographs in the rogues' gallery at the sheriff's office and recently the case was sent to a local cabinetmaker for repair. It was returned today worse than it originally was. All this weighed on the mind of Deputy Huguenard and he was utterly disgusted when the file was returned today. "I'll tell you what I'll do," said the deputy, "I'll get a screwdriver and a stick of dynamite and I'll bring that thing back fixed up or there won't be anything to bring back." The latest bulletins have failed to give any accounts of an explosion anywhere, but there is still a vacant spot on the wall where the photograph case should be. Chief Deputy Eicks says that unless something is heard of Huguenard by 5 o'clock tonight he will send out a tracer and a searching party.

The county commissioners were in session this morning transacting a very little bit of business. Tomorrow is Henry B. Houts

APPEALS TO MINERS

President Asks Them to Return to Work and Promises That They Shall Have Justice.

SENDS AN EMISSARY TO MITCHELL

Washington, Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt has requested Mr. Mitchell, president of the Mine Workers' union, to use his influence to induce the men to go to work with the promise of the appointment of a commission to investigate their grievances and a further promise that the president will urge upon congress legislation in accordance with a recommendation of that commission. No reply has yet been received from Mr. Mitchell.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The following statement was made public at the white house this afternoon:

"On Monday, Oct. 6th, Hon. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, went to Philadelphia and gave to Mr. John Mitchell the following from the president:

"If Mr. Mitchell will secure the immediate return to work of the miners in the anthracite regions the president will at once appoint a commission to investigate thoroughly into all the matters at issue between the operators and miners, and will do all within his power to obtain a settlement of those questions in accordance with the report of the commission.

"Mr. Mitchell has taken this matter under consideration, but the president has not yet been advised of any decision."

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE.

The president was in consultation today for almost two hours with members of the cabinet relative to the coal strike situation. He also talked over the situation with Dr. Albert T. Shaw, and Dr. Lyman Abbott. About 11:30 o'clock F. P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration and for many years chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, arrived at the white house from his trip to Philadelphia, where he went as the emissary of the president to convey to President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' association, the proposition of President Rosevelt that the miners resume work. Mr. Sargent had not succeeded in seeing Mr. Mitchell. The president, however, had heard from Commissioner of Labor Wright, who saw Mr. Mitchell on the same errand last night in Philadelphia, and the latter's report was that Mr. Mitchell desired time to consider the proposition and lay it before his associates. After a conference of an hour between the president, Attorney General Knox, Postmaster General Payne, Mr. Sargent and Gen. James S. Clarkson, it was decided to give out the above statement. This was prepared and issued by Secretary Cortelyou shortly before 2 o'clock.

MINERS VOTING TODAY.

The miners' unions are today voting upon the question of whether they shall continue the strike, but this is upon the proposition of the coal operators and not upon the suggestion of the president to Mr. Mitchell. It is expected that the miners will take up the suggestion of the president and decide upon it after it has been presented to them by Mr. Mitchell. Commissioner of Immigration Sargent returned from Philadelphia today, but had no information to communicate, as he did not see Mr. Mitchell in that city.

MITCHELL OPPOSES PLAN.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—It is learned from a reliable source that the proposition made by President Roosevelt was discussed at the afternoon session of the coal conference here and that President Mitchell has taken an unfavorable attitude toward it.

CONFERENCE IN BUFFALO.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—President John Mitchell and his party and the committee appointed by the National Manufacturers' association, arrived here today. No member of either party would discuss the probable proposition to be submitted for a plan whereby the manufacturers might secure a supply of anthracite coal and thus keep their plants in operation during a continuance of the strike.

The committee from the manufacturers' association is composed of the following members: Frank Leake, of Philadelphia; George H. Barbour, Detroit; D. M. Parry, Richard Young and G. Maxwell, of Indianapolis.

When seen by an Associated Press representative at the Iroquois hotel this morning before the beginning of the conference, Mr. Parry said:

"No tentative plan has been discussed by the committee. Until we get together and talk the matter over with Mr. Mitchell nothing can be said for publication except that we have strong hopes of accomplishing something before the conclusion of this conference, which will be of benefit to the manufacturers of the country."

"Have you any understanding with the operators?"

"No, we have made no move in that direction as yet. If we are able to accomplish anything with Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues we will then try to formulate a plan on a purely business basis to bring the two sides of the controversy together for the benefit of the manufacturers."

President Mitchell, accompanied by the three district presidents, Duffy, Fahey and Nicholls, arrived at the Iroquois hotel at 9:40. Mitchell declined to discuss the action of Governor Stone in calling out the entire National Guard of Pennsylvania, and refused to give the substance of what passed between himself and Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, in Philadelphia.

MITCHELL IS SILENT.

He was asked:

"Has President Roosevelt directly or indirectly made a proposition to you that the miners return at once to work at their present rate of wages, with the promise that he would exert his powers to secure to the miners a redress of their grievances?"

"I have heard nothing from President Roosevelt since the Washington conference," replied Mitchell.

"Have you heard from any source of any such proposition?"

"No, I have not heard of it."

"Is there anything in sight which seems to promise a solution of the present difficulty?"

"Nothing that I know of."

Mitchell was then called to the long distance telephone and conversed with some one in Harrisburg, but declined to say with whom.

At 9:45 Mitchell and the three district presidents went into conference with the manufacturers' committee behind closed doors.

At 12:45 p. m. the coal conference was adjourned until 2 o'clock. Mr. Parry stated that a general discussion of the situation had taken place, but that nothing tangible had been agreed upon.

"Everything is progressing favorably," said he, "and we have hopes that some definite action will be taken at the afternoon meeting."

RESULTS SEEM LIKELY.

When the committee and miners' officials met at 2 o'clock it was announced that one of the manufacturers had been in communication by long distance telephone with a mine operator. It could not be learned who the operator was, but the fact that negotiations between the committee and President Mitchell had progressed to such a stage that it was deemed advisable to consult one of the operators was regarded as significant. It had been stated by several members of the committee early in the day that no understanding existed between the operators and manufacturers and that no step in that direction would be taken until some feasible plan had been settled upon by the conference.

A statement of today's proceedings will be given out on adjournment.

NAVAL VETERANS HAVE PARADE IN WASHINGTON.

ESCORTED BY SOLDIERS

PAGEANT REVIEWED BY CHEERING THOUSANDS.

GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT BEGINS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The bright sunshine which ushered in the opening of the G. A. R. encampment yesterday was succeeded today by cloudy weather. But the change had no effect on the spirits of the vast crowds which early swarmed into the banner-decked streets and hurried to Pennsylvania avenue to take their places for the big naval parade, which was to be the chief event of the morning. Before 9 o'clock the roped-off sidewalks were packed with blue-coated veterans and other visitors, while the air was filled with the blare of bands and the steady tramp of uniformed soldiers, sailors and marines marching to their allotted places in the line. It was estimated that over 100,000 visitors were in the city. The parade was under the command of General Heywood, commandant of the marine corps as marshal of the day, and consisted of all the regular troops located in and about Washington, marines and jackies from the warships, the District of Columbia National guard, the Spanish war veterans, Sons of Veterans, High School Cadets and the Association of ex-Prisoners of War, acting as escorts for the naval veterans.

MARCH OF THE VETERANS.

The column started at 10 o'clock and marched through the densely packed streets to the accompaniment of almost continuous cheers to the reviewing stand opposite the white house, where the escorting bodies halted and formed to review the naval veterans who filed past and disbanded near the state, war and navy building.

Even while the parade was in progress the reunions of some of the army corps were taking place in the tented city on the white lot. The Second army corps assembled in Grant tent, the association of the Fifty-third Pennsylvania regiment in Farragut tent, the first brigade of the second division of the Twelfth army corps in Meade tent and the cavalry corps of the Western army in Sherman tent.

The parade was reviewed from the stand in front of the white house by Admiral Dewey and Commander in Chief Torrance. With them were Secretaries Moody and Root, Admiral Taylor and most of the members of the diplomatic corps now in the city. Admiral Dewey was in full uniform and was accompanied by the two aides.

The procession occupied about an hour in passing the reviewing stand. Each different division received liberal cheers, the veterans being given especial attention.

MANY REUNIONS HELD.

The afternoon was devoted almost entirely to reunions and receptions. At 1 o'clock there was a reception at Mother Bickerdike tent. At 2 o'clock the reunion of the Spanish war veterans occurred in Grant tent, that of the Fourth army corps at Sherman tent, the cavalry corps of the Army of the Potomac at Farragut tent, the joint meeting of Patriotic Women at Meade tent and the Sixth army corps dedicated the monument to Gen. Horatio G. Wright at Arlington. From 3 to 5 p. m. Capt. Eugene F. Ware, the commissioner of pensions, will hold a reception at the pension office. Tonight the big "dog watch" of the naval veterans and other reunions will be held at Camp Roosevelt, including the reunion of the Army of the Tennessee at Grant tent, the Sixth army corps at Sherman tent, the Fifth army corps at Sheridan tent, the prisoners of war at Farragut tent, and the Ninth army corps at Meade tent.

SONS OF VETERANS MEET.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans began at Carroll hall today. The proceedings, which were private, consisted of the submission of reports of officers and of other routine work. There was a public reception at noon at which speeches were made by Chairman MacFarland, Commander-in-Chief Torrance, of the G. A. R.; Chaplain-in-Chief Ennis, of the Sons of Veterans; B. H. Warner, chairman of the local committee, and others.

DR. SAMUEL ARNOLD IS DEAD

WAS CONVICTED OF PART IN LINCOLN'S DEATH.

Pardoned by Andrew Johnson—Always Said He Had Statement to be Published at Death.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 7.—Samuel Arnold, 72 years old, who was convicted in 1865 of participating in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, is dead at his home at Masonville, Arundel county. Arnold, along with Dr. Mudd, Frank McLaughlin and others, was tried and convicted in Washington during Andrew Johnson's term of office. Arnold and Mudd were sent to the Dry Tortugas for life, but were pardoned by President Johnson after he had been acquitted in the impeachment trial. All efforts to get Arnold's story of the incidents leading up to the tragic death of President Lincoln were futile. "I have prepared a statement which will exhonorate me from guilt which will be given to the world after my death," was all he would say concerning the tragedy.

TROOPS IN FIELD

ENTIRE MILITIA OF PENNSYLVANIA UNDER ARMS.

GOVERNOR'S ACTION CAUSES LITTLE COMMOTION.

LITTLE DISORDER REPORTED

MINERS VOTING ON QUESTION OF RESUMING WORK.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—By tomorrow morning ten thousand troops, the entire force of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, will be on duty in the anthracite coal region, pursuant to the orders issued late yesterday by Governor Stone.

The various regiments and brigades are being mobilized today and some are already in the field.

This is the first time since the memorable Homestead strike in 1892 that the entire national guard of Pennsylvania has been called out.

THE FORMAL ORDER.

The formal order of Major General Miller disposing the national guard in the various counties affected by the strike says:

"The division is hereby ordered on duty in the counties of Luzerne, Schuylkill, Carbon, Lackawanna, Susquehanna, Northumberland and Columbia, to see that all men who desire to work and their families have ample protection, * * * protect all trains and other property from unlawful interference. * * * arrest all persons engaging in acts of violence and intimidation and hold them under guard until their release will not endanger the public peace, * * * see that threats, intimidations, assaults and all acts of violence cease at once. * * * The public peace and good order will be preserved upon all occasions, * * * and that no interference whatsoever will be permitted with officers and men in the discharge of their duties."

VOTE TO STAY ON STRIKE.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 7.—In accordance with the address issued by President Mitchell last night calling upon all local unions to meet and take a vote on the question of remaining on strike, the mine workers of the Prospect, Oakdale and Midvale collieries of the Lehigh Coal company held a meeting in this city today and at its conclusion it was announced that the men had unanimously decided to stay out in a body until they had won the strike. This is the first meeting held in the anthracite field under the instructions of President Mitchell.

WYOMING VALLEY QUIET.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 7.—The news of the calling out of the entire national guard of Pennsylvania did not become generally known throughout this region until this morning, the news having been received too late last night for general circulation. It was received in a matter-of-fact way and did not cause any commotion or much surprise. The entire Wyoming valley, of which Wilkesbarre is the center, was extremely quiet this morning. The sheriff has received no reports of violence anywhere, and, in fact, there has been no disorder of any consequence since last week.

The situation so far as the mining of coal is concerned remains absolutely unchanged. There is some coal being shipped, but the quantity is very small compared with the normal production.

The absence from strike headquarters of President Mitchell and the district presidents, who are in Buffalo today in conference with representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers, made things rather quiet here. National Board Member John Fallon was in charge, but he

HAL WATERS WINS FIRST HEAT OF 2:30 PACE IN 2:19¾.

The big Fort Wayne fair is in progress. Its gates were formally thrown open to the public this afternoon, and the weeks of arduous labor of directors and officials has reached fruition in a splendid assemblage of the products of home, field, farm, factory, store and school.

Not every department is in perfect order as yet, but by nightfall all preparations will have been completed, every exhibit will be in place, and the visitors tomorrow and on succeeding days during the present week will witness an exhibition of genuine merit an of surprising magnitude.

The crowd this afternoon, while not a large one, is fairly up to expectations for the opening day, and sufficinet to convince the fair management that with good weather there will be some record-breaking attendcient to convince the fair management that with good weather there will be some record-breaking attendcient to convince the fair management people were within the gates when the races started, and though the earlier cars carried comparatively few passengers, later ones running at six minute intervals, were loaded to the limit.

Chief interest of the afternoon centered of course about the races, and for an hour before 2 o'clock, when the flyers were to start, the drivers were out upon the track warming up their horses. The track itself is in excellent condition considering the prolonged rainfall, though Secretary Fleming said it could not be considered fast.

MADE GOOD TIME.

The opening event was the 2:30 pace, in which there were six starters. Hal Waters, owned by C. F. Culling, of Hillsdale, Mich., won the first heat easily in 2:19¾, others finishing in order as follows: Edna Medium, Rectly Boy, Red Hill, Bicewood and Red Monroe. Waters got a safe lead early in the heat and was never in great danger, though Edna Medium followed steadily. The remaining horses were bunched farther to the rear. Frank Bogash was driving Red Hill, owned by Wilkins Bros., of this city. Chessee Wonder, Ruby Camack, Peter Johnson and Miss Flanagan did not start.

Secretary W. H. Fleming, who is also superintendent of the speed department, is officiating as starter in the trotting and pacing races, while Al Mock, of Elwood, is starter of the running races. The judges are Fred Ellis, of Tweaty, Ind., and Angus McPherson and Matthew Stevens, of Fort Wayne, while O. B. Wiley and B. S. O'Conner are timers.

OUTLOOK WAS HOPEFUL.

Under the cheering rays of indisputable sun which beamed down upon the great grounds of the association today there was an air of confident hopefulness that manifested itself in bustling activity. Belated exhibitors in the exposition building hurried forward the completion of their displays, and wagon after wagon loaded with pretty merchandise of about every description wheeled up to the big art hall to contribute its treasures to the general display on both floors of the great pavilion.

Privilege men bustled about seeking locations for their stands and on every hand tents, counters and decorations were going up rapidly. At the secretary's office a small army of stand men continued yesterday's clamor for position. About the stock barns horsemen were exercising their animals, and in the sheep, cattle, swine and poultry departments exhibitors were getting their animals in shape to be viewed by the visitors to come later in the day. This morning the street cars began running down to the loop at the grand stand and during the forenoon hundreds of people visited the grounds to watch the preparations for the exhibition.

STOCK CAME LATE.

Ten running horses arrived last night to participate in the daily races and it brought the total of runners up to about fifty. Besides these ten trotters and pacers arrived from the Kalamazoo stock farm last evening and the speed classes make a splendid showing. J. H. Bass' splendid Brookside cattle and horses, which have been on exhibition at the leading state fairs, are also shown here, and there is a big string of

SYNOD MEMBERS IN THE CITY

THEY MAKE A VISIT TO THE ORPHANS' HOME.

Reformed Church Clergy From Many Points Inspect Fort Wayne Institution.

A distinguished party of clergymen of the Reformed church, who have been in attendance at the Northwest synod of the Reformed church in the United States, which has just closed its sessions at Magley, Adams county, arrived in Fort Wayne last evening for a casual visit to the orphans' home of that denomination, just east of the city.

In the party were Rev. J. G. Steimert, of Detroit; Rev. E. A. Hamman, of Prairie du Sac, Wis.; Rev. F. Maurer, of Arbine, Neb.; Rev. Carl Heyl, of Monticello, Wis.; Rev. W. F. Horstmeier, of St. Louis, and F. Althof, of Loran, Ill. They were driven to the home immediately upon their arrival and spent the night at the institution. Rev. Horstmeier, who has but recently returned from a tour of Palestine, gave a most interesting address before the children this morning and all the visitors were profuse in their praises of the institution.

Rev. Ruf, the superintendent, accompanied the party to the city this morning and the visitors took trains for their homes.

LUTHERAN MINISTERS MEET

NORTHERN INDIANA CONFERENCE OPENS TODAY.

Over Eighty Ministers Are in Attendance—Will Continue in Session Until Thursday.

Eighty pastors are in attendance at the annual convention of the Northern Indiana Conference of the Lutheran church, which is being held at Emmaus Lutheran church on South Broadway. The district includes all the counties north of Indianapolis, and the convention is one of the largest in point of attendance ever held.

The meetings opened this morning with a devotional service. Rev. Schumm, of Lafayette, president of the conference, presiding. Rev. August Wilder, of Bremen, read a paper on "The Mellenium" and the greater part of the morning session was devoted to a discussion of the paper. The question of the establishment of a fund for the assistance of students in need of financial aid was discussed, but no action was taken.

The convention will be in session until Thursday evening. On Wednesday there will be a public service at Emanual church on West Jefferson street.

OPPOSE EIGHT HOUR DAY.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The National Association of Manufacturers is sending out a circular letter to manufacturers urging them to defeat beyond resurrection the "eight-hour" bill pending in congress. The circular is signed by the president, D. M. Parry, and the secretary, Marshal Cushing, of New York. "We do not oppose organized labor," said Mr. Parry today, "but we do oppose this bill. It is hard enough now for us to get foreign trade. We don't intend to be put on the same footing as the manufacturers of Great Britain, whose trade has been simply slaughtered by laws similar to the one now proposed."

COULD NOT SLEEP

NO REST AT NIGHT—NERVOUS, WORRIED, TIRED ALL THE TIME—THE MEDICINE THAT NEVER FAILS.

Mrs. M. Holzworth, of No. 285 Webster street, Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "My nerves since I took Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Meyer Bros. & Co's drug store, are strong and steady and I sleep well. This is quite a change from past restlessness and inability to sleep and I am very much pleased. The strength in general is good again. The medicine certainly is a good nerve and all-round tonic."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

had nothing to give out beyond the simple statement that the situation so far as the miners were concerned was unchanged. A few striking mine workers gathered about headquarters, but they soon left for their homes when they found there was nothing new in the situation.

APPROVED AND CONDEMNED.

The action of Governor Stone in sending all the troops to the strike region is both approved and condemned. The coal company officials and others who hold the same views as the operators think the governor has done the proper thing, and express the hope that the great struggle will soon come to an end. They predict that with protection for the men who want to work there will be no trouble in getting a sufficient number of men to produce enough coal to relieve the situation so far as the threatened fuel famine is concerned.

The talk among the strikers as the result of the governor's action is even more firm for holding out than it has been at any time since the suspension was inaugurated. The leaders say they look upon the struggle now as a general one of capital against labor, and maintain that with the help of organized labor the country over they can stay away from the mines until the operators are compelled through public opinion to yield a point. While the miners generally condemn the calling of the troops, they say they feel that in the end it will be a help to them.

UP TO THE MINE OWNERS.

They recognize the fact that great pressure was brought to bear on Governor Stone to send his entire military force into the coal fields and now that he has done it, the question of coal or no coal this winter, they argue, is "up to the mine owners." The presidents of the coal carrying railroads told President Roosevelt last Friday that with military protection they can satisfy the public demand for coal. The unionists feel confident the operators cannot make good their promise without conceding something to the men. President Mitchell's remark to the correspondent of the Associated Press last night that the military power of the United States could not make the men go to work if they did not want to, was repeated today by every leader or miner spoken to. They pointed to the statements made by different authorities that since the troops came into the Wyoming region the coal production has not increased, and that very few additional men have returned to work.

None of the additional troops ordered out have arrived here, and no one seems to know when they will come or where they will be placed. It is said that the headquarters of one of the three brigades will be established here.

The borough council of Plymouth, at its meeting held last night, passed a resolution with one dissenting vote protesting against the presence of troops in the borough. A battalion of the Ninth regiment was placed in that community yesterday.

The borough of Plymouth today made an attempt through the county court here to prevent the operation of the North American and Sterling washeries at Plymouth. Proceedings were brought asking for an injunction restraining the companies from operating the washeries on the ground that the culm, dirt and sediment from these places is dumped into the borough sewer, thus obstructing its flow. The court refused to enjoin the companies from operating their plants, but granted a preliminary injunction against their dumping the culm and dirt into the river.

The court fixed Oct. 13 as the date for hearing argument to make the injunction permanent.

WILL ALL BE ON DUTY.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—Major General Miller has ordered Colonel Elliott, assistant adjutant general of the division, on duty at the adjutant general's office in this city to direct the movements of the national guard. The entire state military force was ordered out last night by Governor Stone and Colonel Elliott expects to have every regiment in the strike territory before midnight. The guard will be distributed by regiments over the anthracite regions for the purpose of protecting the non-union men who desire to work and to suppress tumults and riots if they should occur.

General Miller and Adjutant General Stewart went to Washington this morning to attend the national encampment of the G. A. R. The canvas and other camp equipage for the soldiers was loaded on a special train last night and will be sent to the strike territory as soon as Colonel Elliott disposes of the troops.

General Gobin and three members of his staff, who were at the council of war at the executive mansion last night at which it was decided to call out the guard, returned to Shenandoah this morning.

Governor Stone declines to make any statement giving his reasons for ordering the troops on duty. He says the formal orders explain the situation fully.

Col. Willis J. Hulings, of Oil City, has been ordered to take command of the second brigade in the absence of General Wiley, who is in Kansas. Colonel Hulings left here at noon for Mt. Carmel, where he will be joined by the second brigade staff.

Col. James Barrett, of the Tenth regiment, was called here as a witness in an election case in the Dauphin county court and will not get away before night.

HOUSE IS DYNAMITED.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Kuklewicz, of Brownsville, near here, called on General Gobin at headquarters this morning and reported to him that her home was partly destroyed by a dynamite explosion about 1 o'clock this morning. She said the explosion set fire to the house and between the fire and the wreck caused by the explosion the damage to the house is so great that she was compelled to move out with her family. It was reported to the general that the explosion was determined upon by the Lithuanian local of Brownsville. Provost Marshal Farquhar, in command of a squad from the second city troop, went to Brownsville this morning to make an investigation. Kuklewicz is employed at Shenandoah colliery.

In speaking of the general orders issued last night in connection with the calling out of the entire guard General Gobin says he desires to call special attention to the following clause:

"He will arrest all persons engaging in acts of violence and intimidation and hold them under guard until their release will not endanger the public peace."

This, he says, will dispose of hearings before justices of the peace in the matter of these arrests and ought to have a good effect.

AFTER THE SALOONKEEPER.

Yesterday morning at police court Charles Steeker was fined about $42 for firing a rock through the saloon window of Peter Michaels on Sunday night, after he had been ejected. Today Mr. Steeker retaliated by filing two affidavits against Michaels in Bullermann's court. One affidavit charges selling liquor on Sunday and another charges a violation of the Nicholson law in allowing others than members of his family to remain in his saloon. Mrs. Steeker, a very sensible talking woman, is the instigator of the later suits. Her argument for law and her defense for her action is that one violator of the law should be held equally amenable with the other and she insists that there is not a particle of malice back of her prosecution—and she talks like it, too.

MR. LISCHEY SKINNED 'EM.

The board of works this afternoon awarded the contract for furnishing young trees for transplanting in the parks to Aaron Lischey, one of the bidders at yesterday's opening of proposals. Mr. Lischey, who is an old soldier, a pension agent, an attorney, a candidate for justice of the peace, is also a nursery man and in making his bid for furnishing trees complied with all the necessary requirements. He will furnish 250 clover leafed maples, 225 horse chestnut trees, 25 oak leafed beech, 50 other young trees for the gross sum of $100. His bid was over $70 gross lower than that of any of the other bidders.

MAY AMPUTATE ARM.

Gladys, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Paff, living in Spencerville, was brought to St. Joseph hospital today suffering from a compound fracture of the left forearm and complications. Sunday evening the child was thrown from a horse which she was riding from pasture. The X-rays will be used to determine the exact extent of the child's injuries. It is feared that amputation may be necessary.

GIRLS GO ON STRIKE.

BUSINESS SESSIONS BEGIN

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION GETS TO WORK.

Committees Appointed and Reports Are Heard—Will Petition Secretary Shaw.

The principal business at this morning's session of the International Union of Stationary Firemen was the adoption of a resolution, asking the secretary of the treasury, Leslie M. Shaw, that the pay of firemen employed in federal buildings of the United States be made proportionate to the size of the city in which they live. The cost of living in small cities is much less than in large cities, but the wage scale is practically the same all over. The union has been given to understand that a petition of that character would receive favorable consideration, and that the increase would be provided for in the next appropriation. There are about 600 members of the union employed in federal buildings in the United States.

It has been decided to continue the annual conventions, but in the future the expenses of the delegates will be paid out of the treasury of the union. Heretofore the locals have paid the expenses and it is expected that the new order of things will result in a much larger convention. Invitations were received from Milwaukee, Chicago, San Francisco and Rochester for the 1903 convention, but the place of meeting will not be decided upon until near the close of the convention.

The following committees were appointed today: On resolutions, by-laws, ways and means, officers' reports, welfare of organization and the eight-hour agitation. Several business matters of minor importance were up for discussion.

This afternoon Secretary Shamp presented a partial report, in which he stated that there were at present 172 local cities under the brotherhood banner and the condition of the different branches is most prosperous, the growth in the past year being very large. Secretary Shamp recommended the formation of state districts, similar to the miners' organizations, and the report will probably be favorably acted upon.

The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock and boarded special cars and were taken over the lines of the traction company, including a ride to Robison park. The committee on entertainment has provided a fine program for the amusement of the visitors. This evening there will be a smoker and entertainment in Randall hall, and on Thursday evening the delegates will form a theater party to the Temple. The program also includes an inspection of the court house, a visit to the fair and other features.

The state convention of the firemen held a separate session yesterday afternoon and adopted an entirely new constitution and by-laws. The following officers were elected:

President—John C. Mitchell, Fort Wayne.

Vice President—D. V. Girton, Brazil.

Secretary-Treasurer—J. C. Agnew, Hammond.

Executive Officers—W. S. Wirick, Logansport, and J. Newby, Terre Haute.

Finance Committee—Joseph O'Donnell, Whiting; W. S. Wirick, Logansport, and J. Newby, Terre Haute.

ABOUT THE COURT HOUSE.

The superior court was occupied today in finishing hearing the evidence in the Hursh-Grubb case and entertaining the arguments. The case went to the jury about 4 o'clock.

Charles Methley was taken to Richmond this morning in charge of Joseph Barva and a son of Superintendent Turflinger, both personal friends.

J. M. E. Riedel has filed a plat in the recorder's office describing an addition to the city, situated east of St. Joseph river and west of the feeble minded school.

There has been some difficulty experienced with the file for photographs in the rogues' gallery at the sheriff's office and recently the case was sent to a local cabinetmaker for repair. It was returned today worse than it originally was. All this weighed on the mind of Deputy Huguenard and he was utterly disgusted when the file was returned today. "I'll tell you what I'll do," said the deputy. "I'll get a screwdriver and a stick of dynamite and I'll bring that thing back fixed up or there won't be anything to bring back." The latest bulletins have failed to give any accounts of an explosion anywhere, but there is still a vacant spot on the wall where the photograph case should be. Chief Deputy Eicks says that unless something is heard of Huguenard by 5 o'clock tonight he will send out a tracer and a searching party.

The county commissioners were in session this morning transacting a very little bit of miscellaneous business. Tomorrow is bill day.

Henry B. Houts has filed a suit against John and Viola Brown to foreclose a chattel mortgage; demand, $310.

Laura Hess sues John R. Hess for divorce upon statutory grounds.

FILES SPECIFICATIONS.

Colerick, his bill of specifications in objection to the discharge of James T. Warner as a bankrupt under the federal laws. The property in question is real estate, which the objectors say Warner transferred to his sons, and on this ground make objection to his discharge by Judge Baker.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every Fort Wayne Reader.

That which follows is the experience of a resident of Fort Wayne. Incredulity cannot exist about the statement because it can easily be investigated.

Mrs. Margaret Floor, of 96 East Jefferson street, says: "I had pain across the small of my back and dizziness. One day, while looking over the paper, my eye was attracted by an article about Doan's Kidney Pills, so I decided to get them at Meyer Bros. & Co.'s drug store. I no sooner started taking them than I began to improve in health, and I kept steadily getting better until my kidneys and general health were in a normal condition."

FOOD FOR SLEEP.

A Sure Way to Comfort.

The right kind of food will restore any weak stomach. It is better off without drugs and a little judgment in selecting light weight and easily digested food does the trick.

A man in Grand Rapids, Mich., upon recovering from a severe attack of nervous prostration, says:

"The principal trouble was an intensely irritated condition of the stomach, so severe that diluted milk would cause a sensation as if molten lead had been swallowed. At length, I began to study my own case, and abolished drugs and commenced experimenting with my diet.

"Grape-Nuts was brought to my notice, and I found it very palatable, and as a regular morning dish, it met all the requirements, and sustained me until midday. After using Grape-Nuts a week, physical discomfort grew less, my strength began to return and I gained steadily in weight.

"Along with all these improvements came good, peaceful sleep, which had been so flighty a visitor, and with it came returning hope and ambition, and now, with perfect health, it gives me pleasure to give Grape-Nuts the credit it deserves." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

With the expense of maintaining ten thousand soldiers in the field the people of Pennsylvania may soon be expected to take some interest in means to settle the coal strike.

Mr. Bryan heartily commends President Roosevelt's efforts to settle the coal strike and pays tribute to the sincerity of the president's motives. This is only another evidence that the president is beginning to get mighty close to democratic views.

"Straws," says the old proverb, "shows how the wind blows." It was a pretty substantial straw that was allowed to be blown from the recent liquor dealers' convention at Pittsburg. It became apparent during the convention that there was a good deal of apprehension over the prospects of a widespread temperance revival. In Kentucky, local option, already very formidable, may crystallize in legislation that would close all the whisky factories in the state. Texas, too, is becoming so alarmingly temperate that the liquor men look upon it as practically lost to their cause. Other states have "weakly consented" to the adoption of temperance principles to an extent that threatens to undermine the influence of the hitherto invincible liquor power. Something must be done—and quickly—those liquor delegates claimed, if the trade meant to retain its time-honored hold upon the souls, bodies and pocketbooks of the American people. Such a condition of affairs in any ordinary political convention might have started an uproar, or even caused a stampede. But the liquor men, knowing that confusion would be fatal, held themselves well in hand and kept a stiff upper lip. They decided that the only way to restore to alcohol its ancient dominion was to begin a campaign of education forthwith.

Four weeks from today the elections will be held. There is but one month more of the campaign and no sign or prospect that the apathy that has marked it in this state is going to be followed by deeper interest or greater activity. The voters are holding fireside political meetings under their own roofs, if they are holding any, and there is ample evidence that men and issues are being studied from standpoints of merit and promise of public good. There are likely to be many surprises when the votes are counted.

About the healthiest sign of the times is the way justice is being doled out down in St. Louis. Half a dozen boodlers have already been convicted, including a millionaire briber, and a score more are likely to order loud stripes for their fall suit patterns. It took St. Louis a long time to find out what was the matter with her, but when she did there was "something doing."

The governor Pennsylvania has called out the entire national guard of the state for duty in the anthracite mine region. The number of troops that will be in the field by tomorrow will be ten thousand, a force sufficient, it would seem, to thoroughly police the strike region, maintain order and afford protection to all who want to go to work in the mines. Governor Stone's action seems to have been rather suddenly determined upon and the reasons for it do not appear to be well understood. The probability is, however, that he has decided to take the mine operators at their word and afford them all the protection in his power in their endeavor to mine coal. At the Washington conference last Friday the operators told the president that with ample military force to protect men who were willing to go into the mines they would soon relieve the coal famine. Governor Stone has given them the entire national guard of the state to protect their men and property. It is now up to the mine owners to prove that they can get the men to return to work. Just at this time it is interesting to note that dispatches from the Wyoming valley region state that all is quiet throughout that region and that there has been no disorder for many days. A matter of further interest is that pursuant to instructions from President Mitchell the local unions of the miners' organization are voting solidly to remain on strike.

FARMERS' CONGRESS MEETS.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 7.—The twenty-second annual session of the Farmers' National congress was opened in this city today with an estimated attendance of 1,500 delegates representing every state in the union. The meeting was caled to order by President Geo. L. Flanders, who delivered his annual address. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Governor Chandler and George A. Smith, of the city chamber of commerce. Vice President Harvey Jordan, member of congress, responded. The morning session was taken up with the examination of the report of the committee on credentials.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Wheat opened about steady, the influence of large receipts in the northwest and southwest being offset by firm cables. Trading was light early in the day with local sentiment apparently on the buying side, and with no great pressure to sell. December opened 1¢ lower to ½c higher at 69⅝c to 69⅞c, and the range for some time thereafter was between 69⅞c and 69⅝@69¾c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 1,240 cars, which, with local receipts of 245 cars—5 of contract grade—made total receipts for the three points of 1,485 cars, against 1,427 cars last week and 1,041 cars a year ago.

Dullness prevailed the latter part of the session. December closed ¼@⅝c lower at 69⅜@69½c.

There was a slight decline in corn at the opening, due to improved weather, but the market held fairly steady. December opened ¼@½c to ¼@⅝c lower at 45½c to 46⅜c and declined to 45¾c. Local receipts were 172 cars, 13 of contract grade.

Corn closed weak for December, but firm for May. December at one time sold at 48½@48c, but the close was ⅜c lower at 48⅜@48½c.

Oats opened quiet but steady with a rather bullish undertone on continued small receipts and a good cash demand. December opened ⅛@¼c to ½c lower at 32½c to 32¾@32⅝c. Local receipts were 161 cars.

The provisions market was featureless and the opening was slightly lower on a decline in the hog market. January pork opened 10c lower at $15.85; January lard unchanged to 5c lower at $8.95@9.00, and January ribs 2½c lower at $8.30.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 7.—Opening quotations for stocks showed a rebound from yesterday's depression owing to the hope of relief for the money market by purchase of government bonds by the treasury department and to a favorable interpretation of developments in the coal strike situation. Stocks which were most depressed yesterday showed most strength. Canadian Pacific rose 2 points. St. Paul, allowing for the 4 per cent dividend off, rose 1½. Norfolk and Western as much and Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Atchison, Erie, Louisville and Wisconsin Central about a point. The market was active and broad.

A good deal of long stock which had been awaiting a market was sold on the advance, which checked any further improvement. The offerings were pretty well scattered and caused numerous reactions of a point or over. St. Paul, Louisville, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific were a few of the representative stocks that were largely pressed for sale. Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie preferred declined 5½. Prices recovered again, but failed to get back to the highest and there was renewed weakness in spots before 11 o'clock.

The market yielded steadily on light sales until the opening advances were about wiped out and St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Louisville, Southern Pacific and a few of the coolers and specialties sold under yesterday's final price. Sloss-Sheffield Steel broke 0½. But little money was offered at less than 12 per cent. Towards noon prices hardened a small fraction and the market was intensely dull.

Bonds were irregular at noon.

The Grape Cures of Germany

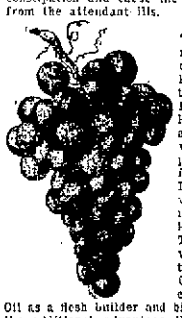
Cure Constipation Permanently.

A Crushed Fruit Tonic-Laxative.

I consider Mull's Grape Tonic the very best medicine I have ever taken. My stomach was in such a bad condition that nothing tasted right and the small amount of food that I was able to eat didn't seem to do any good. I became so nervous that sleep was impossible. My strength gave out and I became exhausted and completely run down. I then commenced to take Mull's Grape Tonic and by the time I had finished two bottles my health returned. I now relish my food and can sleep as well as ever.

THIS IS MY VOLUNTARY TESTIMONY. MRS. D. GIANELLI, 404 S. Joliet St., Joliet, Ill.

The reason for the phenomenal success met with by Mull's Grape Tonic in the cure of all afflictions resulting from constipation, is due largely to the delicious flavor of the tonic and the desire of the patient to take his medicine regularly, not alone for its infallible benefit, but for its pleasant taste. Mull's Grape Tonic is purely a cure for constipation. Constipation causes nine-tenths of all illness. If you cannot sleep, have rheumatism, are weak, can't get the full nourishment from your food, or if you have lung trouble, kidney disorders, piles or stomach disorders it is probably due to constipation. Mull's Grape Tonic will cure the constipation and cause the body to recover from the attendant ills.



Mull's Grape Tonic is not a new or secret preparation known only to the compounder. Its formula is known by nearly all physicians who have been prescribing it for many years. In Germany, where it originated, it is known as the Traubenkur, and which being translated means Grape Cure. It excels Cod Liver Oil as a flesh builder and blood maker with the additional advantage that it does not nauseate the weakest stomach. Mull's Grape Tonic instantly aids in the assimilation and digestion of the food. The blood-making and strength-building properties contained in the natural fruits of which it is composed are readily absorbed by the debilitated system, restoring such a strength and vitality as the sufferer from chronic constipation has not experienced in many years. Its benefit in building up the system is marked and positive. Your doctor would prescribe the same treatment. You can save his fee by securing Mull's Grape Tonic at your druggist at 50 cents a bottle. Send the name of your druggist and 10 cents to cover postage to the Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., for a large sample bottle.

GOULD ADVANCED

IS GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT OF MISSOURI PACIFIC.

MODEL OFFICER AND POPULAR WITH EMPLOYES.

NO DANGER OF A STRIKE

WABASH SHOPS COMMITTEE BACK FROM CONFERENCE.

E. A. Gould has resigned as superintendent of the eastern division of the Wabash. This surprising bit of news was conveyed to Fort Wayne last night in the following characteristic statement from Mr. Gould:

"Peru, Ind., Oct. 6, 1902.

"To Officers and Employes:

"Having resigned to accept service with another railroad, I desire to thank each and every employe of the eastern division for the loyal and efficient service given me during the past thirteen years. I wish you all a happy and prosperous future and I would be pleased to meet as many of you as possible at my office between 2 and 5 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 7.

"E. A. Gould."

EMMET A. GOULD.

popular with his men and liked by each one of them. It is understood that the resignation takes effect on the 15th inst. While there is no official authority for the statement, it is understood that Mr. Gould will on the date named assume the office of general superintendent of the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters at St. Louis. Mr. Gould was once a trainmaster on the Missouri Pacific and is not unknown to the officers and directors of the road. He is an Indiana man, having been born near Rising Sun, Nov. 23, 1851. His first railway experience was in the capacity of a messenger in the telegraph department of the Ohio and Mississippi road in 1869, when he was 18 years old. Later he became an operator on that road. August 1, 1873, he went to the Missouri Pacific as a train dispatcher and later became chief dispatcher. In 1884 he became trainmaster of the Sedalia division of the road. In 1890 he came to the Wabash as assistant superintendent and master of transportation and a few months later was appointed superintendent of the eastern division. Although he never resided in this city, he is well acquainted here through his numerous visits and is popular in business circles as well as with the railway men.

HE SUCCEEDS HARDEY.

Peru, Ind., Oct. 7.—Emmett A. Gould today resigned as superintendent of the Eastern division of the Wabash railroad and will succeed Daniel Hardey, general superintendent of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

COUTANT STILL IN CHARGE.

The successor to Master Mechanic M. R. Coutant, of the Wabash, has not been named yet, and Mr. Coutant is still in charge of the office. It is rumored, upon rather indefinite news from Springfield, that Ed Needham, assistant master mechanic at Ashley, would be sent here, but whether to assume temporary or permanent control the meager reports do not state. If Mr. Needham gets the appointment it will not be surprising to the employes at this place and no appointment would be more acceptable. Mr. Needham was foreman of one of the departments of the shops here once and all the men know and like him. If he is sent here as their master mechanic they will honestly and faithfully endeavor to make his administration satisfactory to all concerned. Up to the noon hour today no information on this subject had been received at the local offices.

THE COMMITTEE RETURNS.

John Cleary, Fred Nahrwald and N. J. Murphy, who composed the committee appointed by the Wabash machinists and boilermakers to go to Springfield and represent the shop employes in conferences with Motive Power Superintendent J. B. Barnes regarding wages at the shops, returned home yesterday. While they will not talk at this time for publication, it is understood that the trip to Springfield was in part successful in its aim. A satisfactory agreement concerning working hours and the apprentice question was reached, but the question of wages had to be submitted to President Ramsey, and he has not yet replied. The general belief is that the question, too, will be amicably settled.

SHORTAGE IN LOCOMOTIVES.

A leading railroad official, who knows all about the locomotive building business and the present scarcity of engines, and whose opinion was sought as to the practicability of the railroad companies turning out their own engines in order to meet more quickly the prevailing emergency that is more likely to get worse than better, in discussing the subject, said:

"Very few railroad corporations in this country are today in a position to make so audacious a move in the face of what we know the regular builders have to face. The Pennsylvania might do it, the Burlington also, and several other larger companies, but even these have been forced to go into the market and place orders, notwithstanding the facilities they have for construction by their own men.

"The Pennsylvania has steadily turned out engines of its own design and building and is still doing so, but look at the big order it has recently been forced to divide between the regular builders. This is owing not alone to the limited capacity of its own shops, but also the comparatively lower cost—the remarkable cheapness of the output of the builders, which cannot be excelled and in very few instances equaled for speed and power.

"Another reason why these roads, that ordinarily would be able to supply their own needs in motive power cannot do so is that pressure of traffic keeps what engines they have so constantly employed that their power is overworked and must be shopped oftener, in order to keep them in the best repair and up to the highest percentage of active service.

"There is not a railroad in this country that has any reason to complain of idleness in its locomotive repair shops, and those like the Pennsylvania and Burlington are compelled to utilize those which would otherwise be devoted to building operations in order that repairs can be promptly and expeditously made."

WERE WELL ENTERTAINED.

Like the former entertainments given by the Ladies' society, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the affair given by the ladies at Brotherhood hall last night was a great success in every sense of the word. There was a good attendance and each number of the excellent program was well rendered and received. All came in for a fair share of applause, but Miss McMillan, Miss Gladys Greek and Miss Estella were particularly well received and encored. Estella Greek is a little tot and her recitation of "We Have Got a Baby at Our House," was given in a manner that would be a credit to one much older than herself. At the close of the stage program the ladies set about getting the refreshments ready and in the meantime the little folks present indulged in a peanut hunt, which afforded amusement for the older ones, until the refreshments were served.

ON INSPECTION TRIP.

A party of Pennsylvania officials are out on division C, of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road today, inspecting the new second track work which has been under construction for the past year and which is now fast nearing completion. This double track work also involved the replacing of a number of bridges by larger and more substantial structures, one of them a stone arch over Broken Sword river, which is the largest bridge of its kind on the Fort Wayne road. Grades and curves were also reduced and in some instances eliminated entirely and the work as a whole has been thorough and very costly. Tomorrow the party will make a trip over the western end of the division, Fort Wayne to Chicago, where even greater improvements in roadbed have been in progress for the past year. In the party are Supt. J. B. McKim, Engineer of Maintenance of Way Blake, Trainmaster J. F. Patterson and Chief Dispatcher J. G. Jennings.

WAS A BUSY MONTH.

Despite the light traffic in coal, due to the strike of the anthracite miners, September last was a busy month in local railway circles, as shown by the report of J. O. Goff, the agent of the Indiana Car Service association. Mr. Goff takes account of only car load lots of freight that do not pass through the freight houses. He reports that month 1,828 cars, against 1,039 cars for August, and 1,628 cars for September a year ago. Mr. Goff says that crushed stone for street building figured prominently in the business.

HAD HIS HEAD CUT.

J. H. King, of 1902 Thomas street, and a switchman in the employ of the Pennsylvania company, received a bad scalp wound at 5:30 o'clock last evening at the Fort Wayne Electric works. King was standing on a box car which was being pushed down the factory tracks to receive a load of dynamos. He was struck by the projecting crane beam, used in loading and unloading cars, and was knocked down on the car roof. A companion saw the accident and rushed to the injured man and prevented him from rolling off the car and possibly receiving more serious injuries. The wound, which is very painful, extends nearly across the front portion of the crown of the head.

HELD A SPECIAL MEETING.

Fort Wayne lodge, No. 136, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, held a special meeting last night to transact some business and initiate some applicants who could not attend the regular meeting last Sunday. The business was of a character of interest only to the members and it was decided to not give it publicity. The new members are Martin L. Bulger, M. M. Logan and F. A. Thomas, the former a Wabash switchman and the two latter brakemen on the Pittsburg road.

WILL REPORT FOR DUTY.

Tomorrow the veteran Nickel Plate Engineer Joseph Bracht will resume his place at the throttle, after an absence of over three months. The reader will remember that Mr. Bracht had an arm broken in the yards in this city just as he was about to take his run out on a freight train. Tomorrow he will take one of the local freight runs between this city and Leipsic.

CONSIGNMENT OF LAMPS.

Among the shipments from the Fort Wayne Electric works today was a carload of Mr. Wood's latest in arc lamps to Conway, Pa., where they will be installed in the Pennsylvania round house and yards. A motor to Hagerstown, Pa., and a motor to the American Vulcanized Fibre company, Newark, Dela., were also among the shipments today.

BRAKEMAN LOSES HIS TOES.

E. D. Ream, a brakeman on the Nickel Plate, lost all of the toes of his left foot yesterday afternoon. The accident happened at Mortimer and the unfortunate man was taken to his home in Leipsic Junction after receiving medical attendance. Ream is on a local freight run between this city and Leipsic.

HAD A BIG MEETING.

Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, met for the first time in its new hall in Harmony building last night. The attendance was far greater than it had been at any of the previous meetings in the history of the lodge, indicating a growing interest in the union.

HAD A FINGER CRUSHED.

B. R. Stanbury, a laborer in the shipping department of the Pittsburg shops, had a finger crushed yesterday while handling some castings and will be unable to work for awhile.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Brakeman E. H. Shrider, of the Pennsylvania, is sick.

Joseph E. Reichelderfer has taken a position in the Pittsburg boiler shop.

M. P. Gaskill, John Rupp and P. V. Romy, Pittsburg shopmen, are sick and off duty.

H. H. Matthewson resumed work at the Pittsburg lumber yards this morning, after an illness of several days.

After an illness of a week Engineer C. Lynch has returned to his duties on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road.

Miss Grace Titus, daughter of Engineer Philip Titus, will leave in a day or two for Chanute, Kansas, where she will visit relatives.

Passenger engine 625 was turned out of the Wabash shops after general repairs this morning. It will go into service on the Detroit division.

F. I. Brown went to Chicago this morning. Thence he will go to Louisville in the interest of the Pennsylvania.

Machinist John Weldon resumed work at the Pittsburg round house yesterday. Six weeks ago he had a leg injured by a heavy iron falling upon it.

The Warsaw Times is authority for the statement that Edwin Ripple and Lawrence Rarick, of that place, have taken positions as firemen on the Pennsylvania.

Ticket Salesman R. F. Douglas, of the Wabash, is suffering from an attack of rheumatism in the shoulders and is confined to his room. The attack is particularly unfortunate at this time, as Mr. Douglas had arranged for a trip to Illinois, where his wife and baby are visiting relatives.

The School of Electricity meets in regular session this evening. The class is large and the pupils are displaying a due interest in the studies.

John F. Dodds, assistant superintendent of the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, is in the city in his official capacity. He resides in Cleveland.

Thomas Dehan, of the engineering department of the electric works, has returned from Tennessee, where he was looking after the interests of the company.

James W. Cunningham reported for duty at the Pittsburg smith shop this morning. He had been at his old home in Bourbon, looking after some private business.

A great number of new cars for eastern roads are passing through the city over the Wabash. They come from the Madison car works, of the American Car and Foundry company.

The Illinois Central has 5,000 more cars than one year ago, having in the past year purchased 3,000 new ones, and 2,000 cars scattered over the country have been returned under the per diem system.

Mrs. Ropa, wife of Machinist Fred Ropa, of the Wabash shops, left today for Chicago, where she will be joined by Mr. Ropa Saturday, when they will go to Milwaukee for a visit with relatives.

The Standard Motive Power company is letting contracts for its immense locomotive works at Canal Dover, Ohio. There will be fifteen buildings, which, with their equipment, will cost $800,000.

Since the establishment of the relief department of the Pennsylvania Railroad company thirteen years ago it has cost the company $500,000, so that the charge of its being a money-making scheme can hardly be sustained.

The Pittsburg blacksmith shops were closed in part for awhile this morning on account of the water supply being shut off to allow some changes in the pipes, where they interfered with excavating for the foundation for the new shops.

It is stated that D. B. Burham & Co., of Chicago, are now drawing plans and specifications for new depots at Chicago, Washington and Pittsburg for the Pennsylvania. The one proposed at Canal and Adams street, Chicago, will cost $2,000,000.

Night Round House Foreman George Talley, of the Pittsburg, and his wife, have returned from a pleasure trip, which embraced a visit to Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago and consumed about two weeks. Charles Metzler, an employe at the round house, reported for work after being sick a few days.

The railroads of the Terminal association of St. Louis will advance some proposition for the road to go ahead with its improvements, estimated to cost $5,000,000. Arrangements are said to have been made to finance and complete the terminal proposition and admit all railroads into the association.

Members of the General Passenger and Ticket Agents' association have received unique invitations from the Grand Trunk to use that line going and returning to the convention to be held in Portland, Me., Oct. 14. The invitation makes it clear that members can take their wives and others of their household they may wish to.

Notwithstanding the anthracite miners' strike, which has so seriously affected traffic on the Philadelphia and Reading railway, the machinists in the shops at Reading have never been more busy than during the past summer. While the anthracite mines have been idle, the freight, coke and soft coal traffic has been so excessive as to keep every locomotive and car in service, and there has been no shortening of the time of the workmen.

FAIR GATES OPEN

coach and draft horses from the Lafayette stock farm in personal charge of the owner, J. Crouch. In addition to these many exhibitors show a smaller number of animals.

Owing to the delay in arrival of exhibits it may be that there will be no judging in any of the departments until tomorrow. R. M. Hamer, of Lafayette, superintendent of Purdue university farm, will be the judge of the cattle department; George Murray, of Polo, Ill., will pass upon the merits of the coach and draft horses, and Joseph Cunningham, of Peru, is judge in the swine department.

Hundreds of folding chairs were placed in the grand stand this morning, and directly opposite the center of the stand, within the space enclosed by the track, has been erected a temporary stage for the aerialists and other performers who will entertain the crowds at intervals during the week.

FROWNS GAVE WAY

A frowning sky, followed by an apparently uncompromising rain, chilled and dampened the spirits of the fair promoters this morning until about 9 o'clock, when old Sol again asserted his supremacy and gave a bedraggled populace another promise of fair weather. Oppressed by many vicissitudes, emanating chiefly from the weather bureau, the fair association has managed to keep a stiff upper lip and went along with the arrangements for a big blow-out this week just the same as though rain and wet grounds had no place in the dictionary. The show, they said, would be up to the standard and above it, whether there was any attendance or not, and the premiums will be paid whether there is a cent taken in at the gate or not.

It is really surprising, and to those not aware by personal observation, almost incredible to know of the really fair condition of the grounds. After three weeks of almost continuous rain one would think that the track would be a sea of mud and the grounds an ocean of water and mire in various stages of offensiveness, but that is not the case.

SOME MUD THERE.

There is mud, to be sure, in places, but the grounds are so well drained and the track so thoroughly constructed that with the exception of bad places in spots all portions of the grounds are easily accessible on foot, and without the necessity of rubbers or overshoes, either. The low places have been filled with gravel, walks have been constructed where necessary, the grass is low and the general condition of the grounds is so vastly better than could be expected that only a visit will prove convincing. The track, as everyone knows, is a clay one, lightly sanded, and having been kept free from use during the rainy spells, is smooth and firm and in excellent condition. It has the reputation, anyway, of being the quickest drying mile track in the country.

When the time for opening the gates came this morning everything was in readiness. The stables were filled with the fleetest horses and the sheds were filled with the finest collection of cattle ever shown in a group in Allen county—and that is saying a good deal.

TODAY'S RACE CARD.

On the card today for the track were the following races, with the entries named:

SMALL INTEREST IN POLITICS

MEETINGS THIN AND PARTY LOYALTY WEAK.

Correspondent Blodgett Gives His Views of the Situation in State of Indiana.

Writing from Fort Wayne under date of October 6, W. H. Blodgett, field correspondent of the Indianapolis News, sends the following to his newspaper:

There is "nothing doing" in politics out in the state. Men who have been familiar with politics for years say that never before have they seen such apathy among politicians and so little interest taken by the rank and file.

The different party organs are publishing stories of the great meetings addressed by orators of their respective party and the "frost" the other fellows are having. The fact is that about every speaker is having a "frost." The meetings held by the two United States senators are not to be compared with those that Mr. Fairbanks and Mr. Beveridge addressed during the last state campaign. Speak to a man about the political conditions in his neighborhood and he answers that there are no conditions, because there is no politics.

Another unusual state of affairs is the large number of "doubtful" voters. Some men who for years have taken the poll of their localities say that at least two-thirds of the voters who always announced their politics this year say that they do not know how they will vote. Even some who have been active partisans say that they are taking no interest this year; there are no issues involved, etc., etc.

LARGE STAY-AT-HOME VOTE.

Everything, politicians say, points to a large number of "stay-at-homes" in both parties, and in counties where the vote is close the managers are making strenuous efforts to get out the vote. It is admitted on all sides that none of the political parties has anything near the local organizations in the different counties that it has had in previous years. There are rows and dissensions in the ranks of both parties all over the state and one is about as bad as the other in that line. The local managers deny that there is any trouble, but an unbiased person is not in any community long until he learns of the troubles, for they are soon told to him. The prohibition party is really in better shape out in the state than any of the other parties. The prohibitionists have a fair organization in about every county, and there is not much dissension in their ranks, but, for that matter, they have not many votes, either.

Well-informed politicians say that there will be more "independent" voters this year than for a long time. They think that the men marked "doubtful" on the poll books will do a great deal of scratching on their county tickets. But for the horde of nominees going up and down the state, it is asserted, the state tickets would be entirely forgotten. There is some feeling as to members of congress and both republicans and democrats are making a fight for members of the legislature.

The democrats are not making any great effort to get the farmer vote. The local managers say that in the country they hope to hold their own, but admit in some places that the republicans will make gains in the country. The democrats say they will offset the defection in the country by gains in the cities and towns.

SOCIALISTS GET ATTENTION.

Just how the factory men and the coal miners will vote is causing the candidates and the party managers a great deal of uneasiness. These are great times for the socialists, and it is noticeable that many well-dressed and intelligent young men are conducting meetings and giving out socialist literature. In some places the socialist vote practically controls the situation.

There is another political force that will cut a large figure, and that is the women; not the political women, but the housewives, those who do the marketing. They are complaining to their husbands about the prices. They are paying no attention to the tariff or the war in the Philippines, but they are insisting that the cost of food is too much, and they are asking their husbands and male relatives to vote for a change. These good housewives do not care which party is in power; there must be a reduction in the price of the necessities of life. In towns all over the state inquiry as to this feature of the political question shows that the woman are exerting their influence to bring down the prices of food. They do not know that voting the democratic ticket will make prices lower, but, just like the men, they are holding the party in power responsible, and they may be able to change a good many votes, particularly in places where there is a large labor vote.

The democratic managers assert that the coal strike will drive a good many votes to their party. "The price of coal and wood is so high and everything on the market costs so much," said Mayor Berghoff, the democratic mayor of this city, "that we are bound to gain by it. If the conditions do not change in the next three weeks there will be a democratic landslide in Indiana that will keep the state democratic for a number of years."

FRANK HERING'S RECORD.

The republicans of the Thirteenth congressional district have dug up the political record of Frank E. Hering, the democratic nominee for congress. They find he was a republican in 1899, for free silver and Bryan in 1900, made socialistic speeches in 1901 and is now a democrat.

Levi R. Stookey, of Warsaw, who is a candidate for joint representative from Kosciusko and Whitley counties on the republican ticket, is visiting every precinct in both counties, though he has 1,000 plurality in his favor.

THERE IS DISSATISFACTION.

The project of building a new Lutheran hospital in Fort Wayne is threatened with failure owing to the fact that a large number of Lutherans are not satisfied with the manner in which the project has been undertaken. The ministers have the matter largely in charge and they are in favor of raising the money before taking any definite steps. On the other hand, many of the laymen favor the formation of an association before beginning the collection of funds, and until a compromise is effected, it is probable little progress will be made. A meeting of the committee having the matter in charge will be held this evening in St. Paul's school house on Barr street.

BISHOP WILL ORDAIN.

Charles Keyser, of Elkhart, will be ordained to the priesthood at the Cathedral this week by Bishop Alerding. On Thursday the young man will be ordained sub-deacon, on Friday he will be made deacon and on Saturday will be fully ordained to the priesthood. Father Keyser spent ten years at Notre Dame, Norwich and St. Mary's. He will be appointed assistant to Father Boeckelmann, at St. Vincent's church, in Elkhart, and will say his first mass at St. Vincent's church on Sunday, October 19.

THE WORST FORM.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol; the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat; by cleansing and sweetening the stomach, and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. Meyer Bros. & Co.

RAN AWAY WITH FIRST LOVE

MARION WOMAN LEAVES HER SECOND HUSBAND.

Repents and Will be Taken Back by Forgiving Spouse—General News of Indiana.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 7.—After many years absence Joseph Harrison has returned and claimed his old love, although she is now the wife of another. Miss Edna Bushwiller when nineteen years old fell in love with Joseph Harrison, when both were students at Taylor university, at Upland. The father of the girl objected, but when he learned that they had planned an elopement he consented to their marriage. One month from the day of marriage the husband was arrested on a charge of grand larceny, found guilty and sentenced to the Michigan City penitentiary for three years. His young and attractive wife remained true to him and when he was paroled she again joined him. He took her to London, where his relatives reside. But shortly after she reached England she wrote letters back to her parents telling them of cruel treatment, poverty and the terrible life of the wife of a gambler, thief and crook. Her relatives sent her transportation for her return home. Back at home again, Mrs. Harrison was soon the bright, dashing, comely woman previous to her marriage. A suit was filed for divorce, which was granted, and fifteen months ago Mrs. Harrison was married to John Hale, an industrious and prosperous young man of this city, who provided an excellent home. All seemed content and happiness to both until Sunday night, when Harrison, the first love of Mrs. Hale, appeared. He asked for an interview with his former wife, which was granted. They finally went for a drive, but returned within an hour. Mrs. Hale declared to her husband that she would remain true and that she had no love for Harrison. Later in the evening, however, she left her home, ostensibly for a short trip to town. She has not been seen since. It was supposed that she had eloped with Harrison, and last night this view was confirmed when Mrs. Hale telegraphed to her husband in this city from New York stating that she had been deserted again by Harrison. She asked for forgiveness and the privilege of returning home. Transportation was sent to her.

BISHOP FILES DAMAGE SUIT.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 7.—Bishop Alerding, of Fort Wayne, of the Fort Wayne diocese of the Roman Catholic church, through State's Attorney George E. Clarke, filed suit in the circuit court yesterday against Architect C. A. Brehmer, of this city, and the American Surety company, of New York, to recover on a surety bond. Damages to the amount of $2,500 are asked. The case involves the construction of a brick church at Lebanon, Ind., upon ground belonging to the bishop. A contract was entered into with Mr. Brehmer, who was to erect the building for a consideration of $6,548 and furnish all the material. The complaint alleges the church was built according to contract, but that Mr. Brehmer failed to pay for all the material and parties from whom it was purchased had demanded payment from the bishop.

OPPOSE SUNDAY COLLISION.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 7.—Logansport church people are inaugurating a crusade against the public exhibition of a head-end collision between two railroad locomotives, which is planned to be given here next Sunday, and at the prayer meetings this week a sentiment is to be created and a protest formulated against the exhibition as a desecration of the Sabbath. The Baptist congregation already has passed resolutions in protest, averring that the exhibition will have a demoralizing tendency. The exhibition is being promoted by several Terre Haute men.

REMONSTRATORS IN FIGHT.

Scottsburg, Ind., Oct. 7.—The anti-saloon men won a victory yesterday afternoon by keeping out two saloons. Charles C. Smith gave notice that he would apply for license in two separate buildings. Two remonstrances were filed, signed by a majority of the voters of the township. After a hot contest the commissioners approved the remonstrance and Mr. Smith cannot secure a license for two years.

SMALLPOX AT BRISTOL.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 7.—The northern part of the county was thrown into a state of excitement yesterday morning when it became known that a smallpox victim had for hours been walking the streets of Bristol. John Jarvis, a prominent farmer living near Goshen, went to that place and was taken sick. He visited a physician and was immediately ordered to return to his home.

PUMPING STATION WRECKED.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 7.—The Greentown pumping station of the Chicago Gas company was partially wrecked by an explosion Sunday night. A compressor was thrown 500 feet and the roof was blown off the boiler house. Nobody was hurt.

THE NEWS OF THE POLICE

There was no police court this morning.

From the regular force Officers Bergman, Strodel, Trebra, Thomma and Lavenway were detailed on special duty at the fair grounds today. The regular special force is under the direction of George Swain and consists of Frank Roelle, deputy sheriff, and Officers P. J. Bulger, William Reardon, James Loughlin, Charles Muxfield, John Lonergan, Thomas Hunt, William Vincent, John Carll, William Cutshall, George Brower, James Cleary, F. C. Greider, H. C. Coudevey and John Eicks. Mr. Roelle will be in charge of the night watchmen and Mr. Swain will be the general superintendent during the week.

Any person finding himself shy about one open-faced and well mannered cow may find the same at 301 West Williams street, where a stray animal was housed, fed and milked last night.

Three cases of missing dogs were reported to the police station this morning and in each case the dog failing to answer roll call was a hunter. This leads the superintendent of police to observe that if owners of hunting dogs would take pains to keep their animals confined during the hunting season the police would be saved much annoyance and the dog owners much worry. Any man with a good looking gun and a hunting coat can engage the confidence of the first sensible hunting dog he meets and hunters are not so mindful of the rights of proprietorship as to shoot a good dog full of holes just because he wants to follow a good hunter into the field—and all hunters are good at this season of the year.

The patrol wagon was called last evening to do ambulance duty in conveying Mrs. J. W. Coblentz to the county jail for restraint. The unfortunate lady, who has been mentally afflicted for some time, arrived at the stage of raving insanity last night.

Mr. Swartz, who conducts a meat market at 2514 Calhoun street, reported that evil dispositioned boys had torn down his awning last night.

Reports of a burglary were received at the police department this morning, the burglars performing at Schoolcraft, Mich., and being supposed to have headed this way.

A horse and buggy straying on the street were put up at Horstman's barn by Officer Thomma last night.

HIS LIFE IN PERIL.

"I just seemed to have gone all to pieces," writes Alfred Bee, of Welfare, Tex., "biliousness and a lame back had made life a burden. I couldn't eat or sleep and felt almost too worn out to work when I began to use Electric Bitters, but they worked wonders. Now I sleep like a top, can eat anything, have gained in strength and enjoy hard work." They give vigorous health and new life to weak, sickly, run-down people. Try them. Only 50c at Dreier & Bro.'s drug store.

The monthly meeting of the vestry of Trinity Episcopal church will be held this evening.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures cough and colds and prevents pneumonia. Take no substitute. Sold by Dreier & Bro. and Pellens & Polster.

THREE WEEKS IN A CAVE

MAN WANTED FOR MURDER HAS A DOLEFUL TIME.

Diet of Pawpaws, Raw Corn and Apples Grew Monotonous and He Has Surrendered.

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 7.—After three weeks of life in the woods, with nothing but the wet ground for a bed and the protection of caves and trees from storms and rain, Zack Smithson, murderer of George Boswell, has surrendered to Sheriff Cooper and Deputy Sol Brazier. Smithson was tired of the life he was compelled to lead in order to avoid arrest, but so great was his fear of lynching, he says, that he could not force himself to give himself up to justice before this time. After the murder he sought a cave on the Jonathan Stoner farm, two miles from a wagon road, and which Smithson says no man but himself knew about.

He spent the first three days and nights in that cavern, with nothing to eat. After that he roamed the deepest recesses of the woods in the western part of the county, with nothing to eat but apples, pawpaws and raw roasting ears. Only once did he have a fire, and that was built to dry his hosiery, he says.

He had several meals at his home during the last few days of last week and at that time made arrangements with his son to come to this city and inform the officers of his intention to surrender.

The plan was for Smithson and the sheriff to meet at the Pleasant Hill graveyard at 11 o'clock Sunday night, and a more lonesome night and place could not have been chosen. The darkness in the country was "thick enough to slice," the officers say, and Smithson evidently didn't enjoy the idea of being arrested in a graveyard, for he started toward town before the appointed time, and met the sheriff and his deputy.

Warm wraps were provided him and he was otherwise cared for.

WILLIAM R. HEARST ACCEPTS.

New York, Oct. 7. In a speech yesterday, accepting the democratic nomination for congress in the Eleventh district, William Randolph Hearst announced himself as in favor of public ownership of certain public utilities, specifying, as a natural beginning, railroads and telegraphs. Existing conditions, he declared, made it advisable for the government to take possession of and manage the anthracite coal mines for the people's benefit.

He favored the election of United States senators by popular vote as a means to the end of dealing with monopolies that "compel the payment of extortionate prices by the helpless public."

HANNA CHALLENGES JOHNSON.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 7.—In his speech at Steubenville yesterday Senator Hanna challenged Mayor Tom Johnson to a debate on the tariff, the subject to be discussed from a strictly economical standpoint and with no reference to monopolies. Senator Hanna's challenge was telegraphed to Mayor Johnson at Wooster and he immediately replied that he would accept the challenge and would debate the subject in any way or at any time that Senator Hanna might name.

PRICE OF OIL IS HIGHER.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Standard oil monopoly is taking advantage of the coal famine to increase its profits. An official announcement was made today by the company that the price of petroleum had been advanced from 8 to 8½ cents a gallon. The production of petroleum in the United States last year was 2,396,975,700 gallons, of which 1,315,240,000 gallons was for domestic consumption. If the advance applied to crude petroleum it would mean an additional revenue to the Standard Oil company of $6,530,225 a year. Only about 500,000,000 gallons, however, will be affected by the increase, so the Standard Oil company at this time is increasing its annual income about $2,500,000.

WHITECAP RAID NEAR PERU

MIAMI COUNTY MAN WHIPPED AND PAINTED.

Attention to Married Woman is Resented By Neighbors—Eggs and Stove Blacking.

Peru, Ind., Oct. 7.—Whitecaps have broken out in Miami county. Five masked men Sunday night went to the home of John Ehrhardt, near Denver, this county, dragged Henry Lee from the house, whipped him with switches and applied a coat of stove polish and eggs to their victim's body. Lee had been accused of paying too much attention to Mrs. Ehrhardt, and it is said he had been warned to keep away from her house. Sunday night the band of whitecaps went to the Ehrhardt home and forcing an entrance the marauders searched the house and found Lee hiding in a closet.

He was seized and dragged from the house, when he was stripped of his clothing, tied to a tree and severely whipped. Lee tried to fight off his assailants and struggled and pleaded for mercy, but the masked men smeared him with a coat of stove polish and eggs before they released him with a warning to heed their advice in the future. Lee was not seriously injured by his assailants, and he was at Denver yesterday, where he reported the whitecapping to the authorities. He may attempt to prosecute some men he believes were in the party that assaulted him.

BACK FROM HAWAIIAN TOUR

SENATORS BURTON, FOSTER AND MITCHELL RETURN.

Found the Islands in a Deplorable State of Commercial and Industrial Depression.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—United States Senators Burton, of Kansas; Foster, of Washington, and Mitchell, of Oregon, have returned from the Hawaiian Islands, where they have been on a tour of investigation as a sub-committee of the senate committee on Pacific islands and Porto Rico. They were accompanied by ex-Senator Thurston, of Nebraska.

No matter connected with the relations of the federal government of the islands was ignored by the committee. Special attention was given to the labor questions and the claims of Queen Liliukalani for the loss of the crown lands and the annual revenues from the same. Special attention was also given to the question as to the advisability of so amending the organic act as to require the organization of county and municipal organizations and much testimony was taken on this question.

Referring to the present industrial conditions of the islands, Senator Mitchell said:

"Contrary to the conditions of great commercial and business prosperity now prevailing on the mainland throughout the United States we regret to be compelled to say that we found the islands in a state of very great commercial and industrial depression caused, it is generally claimed, by the low price of sugar and the scarcity and high price of labor."

Mr. Mitchell stated that a spirit of harmony characterized all the proceedings of the sub-committee, the members of which were shown every consideration by the people of the islands.

LADIES' BAND HAS GONE.

Waterloo, Ind., Oct. 7.—The Ladies' Military band, of this city, has gone to Washington, D. C., where it will lead the delegation from Toledo, O., representing Forsythe post, of that city, in the G. A. R. parade.

This band is the pride of Waterloo. It is composed of women from the best families in the community. They have new uniforms of red, with gilt trimming, and red caps. Mrs. Ella Reed is the leader of the band, and she plays a cornet, which was made by the C. G. Conn factory for Liberati, the band leader, but was presented to Mrs. Reed by Mr. Conn.

The members of the band are: Ella G. Reed, Mabel Reed, Blanche Reed, Edna Henning, Lida Stage, Lelah Little, Daisy Smurr, Lulu Knisely, Winnie Detrick, Vinnie Meyer, Nettie Rickel, Cora Kiplinger, C. V. Reed and Master Lynn Reed. Master Lynn Reed is the drum major, and is 7 years of age. C. V. Reed is the business manager of the band and has a number of engagements booked ahead for the band. The band was organized in 1897.

GIRL TAKING A LONG SLEEP.

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 7. Miss Dora Meek, aged 17, a waitress, lay down at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28, to take a nap, and she is still sleeping. She has never been aroused sufficiently to swallow more than two tablespoonfuls of water or soup at a time. She has not been even partially aroused more than once a day, and each time before the third spoonful would be given her she would lapse into sound sleep. Several physicians have examined her and vainly attempted to arouse her. Sunday ice was rubbed on her spine, but it had no effect. Physicians ascribe her condition to hysteria and nervous prostration. Yesterday she was moved several squares in an open wagon without being aroused.

CHAPTER XXV.

WHEN I related the whole confession to Miss Stetson, a new light slowly entered her beautiful eyes. In conclusion she laid her head alongside of that of the sick man and sobbed.

A week after the arrest of Dr. Squires I was watching by the bedside of my master. Suddenly he opened his eyes and stared hard at me. A look of recognition seemed to enter them. I did not speak, but returned his glance steadily.

"You here?" he said suddenly. "What are you doing here?"

I thought he was wandering in his mind, and so did Miss Stetson, who smoothed out his hair and said gently:

"You mustn't talk, Charles. You must rest quietly."

But he did not notice her. His eyes were still fixed upon me.

"Why is it we meet so often?" he added. "Are you dogging my footsteps?"

"No," I replied, not knowing what else to say.

"When I met you that first night, I gave you one-third of the goods and told you I never wanted to meet you again. Why do you persist in running across me, or is it accident?"

"Yes," I replied, beginning to divine his meaning. "It is pure accident."

"And I saved you that other night from the doctor's hounds. That should make you a little indebted to me. If you appreciate that, you will never meet me again."

"I hope I never shall."

I spoke in earnest then, for it was not my master who was talking, but the hypnotized robber and burglar whom I had twice encountered in his midnight prowlings.

The doctor, who had come in, said he was wandering in his mind, but I knew differently. His other self, which Dr. Squires had created out of him, was talking. Would that other self predominate and possess the body of Charles Goddard, my master?

He soon relapsed into his former quietness. About midnight the doctor said a change would soon come. We watched critically every line of his face and forehead.

"There are signs of his recovering consciousness," the doctor said finally. "He will probably remember nothing about all that has occurred. His hypnotic state is all a blank to him, and it must never be mentioned to him. He is as pure and innocent of crime as any of us. Let him never think otherwise. The whole story can be hushed up. If he knew it all, the shock might kill him."

The climax of the fever was reached shortly after 2 o'clock in the morning. The breathing slowly lost its laboriousness, and the hands grew moist and soft. The eyelids finally fluttered and opened. He looked around a moment in silence; then he said softly:

"Belle, dear, I've had such horrible dreams, but they were nothing but dreams, were they?"

"No, Charles; nothing but dreams—nothing but horrible dreams."

She bent over him with admirable composure, but a tear trickled down and splashed on the pillow as she kissed his lips.

THE END.

A Strange Dream.

As I rode along in one of the suburban tram cars I passed a cottage wherein a strange thing happened awhile ago. Near by lived an old man who had received many kindnesses from the true hearted mistress of the cottage, who took compassion upon his necessity. Early one morning this lady woke in great affright. She had dreamed that the old man was calling her in frantic haste to come and help him. She looked at the clock and noted the time. It was 4:30. Later on the lifeless body of the old man was found in a well. The medical opinion was that it must have got into the water at about 4:30 that morning. That was their independent testimony before they had been told of the curious experience of the woman. The distance of the well from the house made it impossible that she could have heard the old man cry, if he really did cry. How, then, can one explain the incident? I might relate other facts similar in their nature, all showing that there is in the world more mystery than we have yet comprehended.—London Standard.

Imitation New Potatoes.

Here is a way in which imitation new potatoes are made: Late in the season, after the other crops are out of the way, the gardener plants a crop of late and good keeping potatoes. These potatoes are dug and buried in heaps in the open field and left until spring opens and the new potato season arrives. At the proper time the heaps are opened and the potatoes dipped into a boiling solution to curl the skin. The effect of dipping any potato, no matter how old, into this boiling lye solution is to crack and curl the skin, and at the same time it hardens or makes the potato much more firm, so that its resemblance to a new potato is so near that it would be hard to pick out the imposter, from appearance alone, from a basket of the genuine article.—London Globe.

Dining Out.

Mr. Rabbit—No, thanks; I never eat meat, as it makes one grow coarse.

Mr. Lion—Well, I have eaten a good deal, and it never done me no harm.—Life.

The Truant and The Shark

By P. Y. BLACK

Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association

"HI! I'd like to see me!"

The small boys looked at Master Wat with admiring eyes.

"You chaps can go and be taught by a burgher if you like, but not me."

"Won't your father lick you, Wat?"

"Shut up! He's got no father, and his mother never licks him."

Wat walked off, with his nose in the air, and just around the corner he ran squarely into the schoolmaster who was to take the place temporarily of the regular teacher, who had broken his leg. Wat sniffed impudently and would have walked past, but Jan de Jough put out a hand to stop him—put it out with diffidence, hesitatingly, almost as an inferior might do.

"It is time for school, Master Thoms," said he.

"I am not going to school today."

"And tomorrow?"

"Not tomorrow."

"May I know why?"

Wat looked to one side and another, rather abashed, and then insolently at the young schoolmaster.

"White men," said he, "should not be taught by—by black men."

He ran away and did not see the flush of anger and sorrow that reddened De Jough's olive cheeks. The schoolmaster looked after him for a second and then slowly proceeded to open the school.

This happened in Natal, where are many men of different races—English, Dutch descendants, Portuguese, Malays, descendants of the coolies brought in old times from the East Indies as plantation workers, and Kaffirs. So there are many social ranks and grades. Wat was an English boy, brought out to the colony when a baby, and as the English rank highest in the country and never would think of mingling intimately with the other races Wat, being only twelve years old, had a rather exaggerated idea of his own and his people's worth.

Jan de Jough was not a black man, though his skin was dark, like most Italians. He was the descendant of Dutch and Portuguese ancestors, who long, long age had owned the country before the Englishmen took it as the spoil of war, just as America today has come into possession of the Philippines.

Mr. de Jough was downhearted. Most of the boys were of English parentage, and if Wat, their leader, rebelled he foresaw a falling off in attendance and the consequent loss of his first position, his first stepping stone. He was right. The boys, small as they were, were impudent and unruly, and Jan dismissed the school despondently.

Meantime Wat, for sufficient reason, did not go straight home. He doubted his reception by his mother might not be altogether cordial and appreciative. It was hot, as it usually is on the coast of the Indian ocean. One advantage the heat brings to the boys is that one can go swimming any day almost all the year round. Wat, wandering along by the surf, soon felt the sun oppressive, and when he came to a cove which he and his chums knew well as a swimming place where the surf did not break too violently he naturally came to the conclusion that a bath would be a good thing to break the lonely monotony of the morning. He was, like most boys in warm countries, a first rate swimmer, and he had no hesitation in plunging into the huge Indian ocean even when quite alone.

He left his clothes on the beach near some rocks without fear of pilfering wanderers, for the cove was some distance from the town and a spot where few ever wandered. He ran in with a dash, paused to catch an incoming breaker just at the right moment before it broke, dived beneath its crest, swam vigorously under water for a minute and came up puffing and blowing on the glorious swell of the waves, with the sun glowing down upon him in warm hearted approval.

Wat turned on his back and let himself be rocked luxuriously. One moment he would be lifted up so that he could look far out to sea or inland at the vast extent of greenery, and the next he was down in a great hollow, with nothing before his eyes but the cloudless blue above and the glassy waters reaching up at his sides like precipitous mountains.

"Poof—oof—ow!" cried the boy. "This is better than a stuffy schoolroom, with a low burgher making you study the idiotic history of the country. He had a cheek to think he could teach English boys. I wish he was here, and I'd teach him to swim. Wouldn't I duck him? Oh, no! Certainly not!"

He was like a fish. He reveled and played in the sea like one of its own inhabitants. A home bred boy of a colder climate, used to one or two months' swimming in the summer holidays, would not have believed a twelve-year-old youngster could be so much at ease on the breast of the fathomless ocean. Wat struck out to deeper water with a bold, swift side stroke and soon was standing, monarch of all he surveyed, on a great black rock which broke the force of the waves as they strove to dash, with headlong strength, into the quiet cove.

As he stood there, with joyous eyes, facing the ocean defiantly, as his race's eyes have done for centuries and do today, sudden interest increased their wide brightness. A quarter mile out from the beach of the little bay, but only half that distance from the rock on which he stood, lay on a reef the dark timbers of a recent wreck. Wat remembered hearing of a little bark rushing on the reef in a gale a month ago, but school and cricket had prevented his going out to the cove until now. At once he was filled with the desire to explore, and without a moment's hesitation he plunged into the deeper outside waters and swam for the hulk. It did not take him long to cover the 200 or 300 yards to the wreck. When the vessel was wrecked, monster waves, driven in by a landward gale, had broken over the reef, but now the sea about the dead ship was comparatively quiet, and on the lee side Wat had no difficulty in climbing aboard.

Here were new and exhilarating delights of the rarest sort. To explore strange corners, to stand waist deep—now the tide was one—in the skipper's own cabin and, poking about with fingers and toes, unearth strange things, worthless now, but interesting; to peek and pry with an excited heart in the hope that he might light upon a wonderful find—perhaps treasure overlooked, perhaps— At the thought of perhaps seeing something ghastly, although he knew all the crew had been saved, Wat suddenly felt lonely and afraid. He ran quickly up on the broken deck. He was startled to note how long by the sun his walk and his swim and his explorations had taken. Now he felt hungry, and he knew it must be long past time at his mother's house. Tiffin? He looked again at the sun and the shadows of the rocks upon the sea and calculated correctly that it must be 2 o'clock and school would be coming out in an hour.

Wat ran to jump overboard. His foot was on the broken rail, and his hands were raised to dive. In an instant he would have been in the water, when he staggered back, white as flour, shaking at the nearness of his escape. Slowly, with lazy complacency, with hardly a flick of its great tail, there swam beneath the boy most leisurely a great shark. It moved about close to the surface, its dorsal fin sometimes above the water, like a sail, and its cold, cruel, vicious, hungry eyes stared up at the truant. Wat sank down, sick and faint.

He had been foolish, worse than foolish. Time and again he had been warned, with the other boys, about the sharks, which, though they do not actually infest these waters, are by no means rare. The cove was comparatively safe, but beyond it there was always danger. It was the old story of the wolf. "Shark!" had been cried so often to young Wat that he paid little attention to it. Now he was trapped.

After a time Wat got up and looked cautiously overboard. The shark was not there, but when he ran to the other side it was there. The monster knew his meal was safely cornered. Round and round he swam, lazily and unconcernedly enjoying the warmth of the sun near the surface. Wat was unable to withdraw his eyes from it. It fascinated him as a snake does a monkey. Now and then the fish would roll over on its back, and then Wat would hide his eyes, shuddering at the sight of that hideous mouth and those gleaming teeth. Once, when the shark had been on guard for an hour or more, it paused at the seaward end of the wreck and then swam slowly outward. Hope sprung in the boy's heart, and he slipped quietly to the other end, intending to glide noiselessly into the water and strike out for shore. If he had done so, he might have got safely away while the shark continued to swim about, thinking its prey was still there, but Wat had not the great courage to risk it. He hesitated, and in another two or three minutes it was too late. The brute came back, and Wat fancied as it resumed its methodical watch that it looked up at him mockingly.

The truant grew hysterical with fear and horror. He was quite able to realize his position. If he swam shoreward, he would meet a certain, cruel death, perhaps the most horrible of deaths. But the cove and the hulk lay far below the sea road, and between that road and the ocean were great masses of trees and jungle which shut out the sea from land passengers. Not once in a week perhaps might any one seek that secluded spot, while ships passed far, far out. Thus there was little chance of speedy help and an almost inevitable end by starvation and exposure, for, although the days are warm, the nights in Natal are often cold, and Wat was naked to all the chill winds of the sea.

When his hysteria grew uncontrollable, his moans and tears gave place to loud sobs, but still the placid sentry of the hulk swam round and round. The sobs at length ceased, and in their stead came loud cries which soon were shrill resounding shrieks. But the shark swam round and round till the truant was crazed, driven almost to madness by that relentless watch.

At length toward evening, when the sun was sinking fast, one piercing scream from Wat was answered from the beach of the little bay—answered by a long, full toned "Hello!" Wat ran up and down, jumping and throwing his arms in the air, shouting "Help! Shark! Help! Shark!" with all his strength and all his might. To the highest rock a figure ascended, the sun shining fully upon it, and Wat recognized the humble student, the poor schoolteacher, Jan de Jough, whom he had so grossly insulted in the morning. The boy's heart sank.

"I called him a black man," he thought, "and he isn't, and I tried to break up the school. He'll go away and leave me to die, and nobody will ever know."

Still he shouted and cried and pleaded, and the schoolmaster, to his great joy, instead of going away, came along from rock to rock to a promontory where his words could be distinctly heard.

"I don't understand," cried De Jough. "Are you hurt? Can't you swim ashore?"

"A big shark is swimming around the wreck," yelled Wat, "and I can't get away from it! Oh, Mr. de Jough, forgive me and save me!"

The schoolmaster did not reply for a moment. He was startled. There was no small boat nearer than the harbor, three hours away. There and back would be six hours at the very least, and by that time it would be cold and dark, and Wat might get so crazed with cold and terror and loneliness—might grow delirious, in fact—that he would jump overboard to swim ashore, when his fate would be awful. These things the master thought of in a moment, thought of something else for a moment, just the value of his own life, thought for not a single moment of that boy's attempt to raise a mutiny in the school, and the next moment he was stripped to the skin.

"Cheer up, Wat, my boy!" he shouted, as if Wat was a good comrade instead of an insolent pupil. "Keep a good heart. I'm coming."

He was coming! Wat could not reply. How could Mr. de Jough pass out if he could not pass in? He looked and saw the master on his knees praying, and Wat knelt also.

When De Jough rose up, he had a long bladed open clasknife in his mouth and immediately dived into the water. The shark felt the vibration caused by that plunge and darted a little way in, at once on the alert. Wat, still kneeling, watched with clasped hands and anxious eyes. The head of the master appeared, his strong arms striking out resolutely. A few yards he came, when the monster detected him and made a rush. For a moment Jan de Jough paused, then suddenly dived, and the next instant the shark leaped clear of the water and, shaking again, left behind it on the surface a great red stain. De Jough came up. Wat saw the enraged shark's fin near the surface, saw the gleam of its white belly as it turned on its back so that its hideous mouth could bite, saw Jan dive once more and then saw the great fish roll over in a mess of blood and slowly sink. Jan had killed the shark in its own element. Wat leaped then, with a glad shout of thanks, and in a short time was safe on shore.

"I thank you," he cried, clinging to the student's side, "and, Mr. de Jough, I was an awful cad to say that this morning. Lick me as much as you please, and I won't cry out. You can kill me if you like. I'm ashamed of myself."

De Jough only pressed his hand and smiled.

"We'll try to forget all that, Wat," said he. "But, though I am not a black man and couldn't help it if I were, yet it was a black man who saved you from the shark."

"How?"

"Because a Kaffir on the coast, a famous diver, taught me that trick, without which I could not have saved you. So, you see, Wat, it is unwise to sneer at any person of any race, black, brown or white, for it is more than likely that person may be able, knowing what you don't know, to be of service to you."

Wat bowed his head, abashed.

"Mr. de Jough," he said after awhile, "I'm coming to school tomorrow, and—were the boys rude?"

"A little."

"Well," said Master Wat, "they won't be any more. They know me, and I like you, Mr. de Jough."

Mr. Owen Dunn, of Benton Ferry, W. Va., writes: "I have had kidney and bladder troubles for years and it became so bad that I was obliged to get up at least a dozen times a night. I never received any permanent benefit from any medicine until I tried Foley's Kidney Cure. After using two bottles I am cured. For sale by Dreier & Bro. and Pellens & Polster.

Rev. Jacob Williams, a United Brethren minister, died Sunday at his home two miles south of Huntington. He was 67 years of age.

Alexander W. DeLong, a veteran Huntington newspaper man, is critically ill, and it is believed his death is but a matter of a short time.

George Goble, of Whitley county, was kicked in the chest by a playful horse and the middle lobe of his right lung was bursted. He will recover.

An Elkhart woman is nearly bald as the result of using a hair-bleaching compound and is remaining indoors awaiting the appearance of a new crop of hair.

Company A, Indiana naval reserves, has been organized at Michigan City with one hundred members. The adjutant general will be asked to equip the company.

One hundred and twenty-five ballots were taken by the city council at Winchester before a successor to City Marshal Daly was elected. Then Nathaniel A. Curtis was chosen.

Standing upon a baggage truck at Logansport Monday, Carrie Nation delivered a forceful speech against the liquor traffic and similar evils and incidentally sold $15 worth of her souvenir hatchets.

John T. Hoard, a well known resident of Washington township, Whitley county, died Monday at the age of sixty-three years. He was a veteran of the civil war and has recently been living at the soldiers' home.

Elsie Huston, an 8-year-old Huntington girl, had three knitting needles to take to the home of a neighbor. In running around the house she fell and one of the needles penetrated her abdomen. She will recover.

Jonathan Roberts, of Richmond, Ind., is 91 years old and has lived all his life on the ground where stood the house in which he was born. Within 100 feet of his home is a log cabin built in 1812 for a school house—the first in that region of Indiana.

Policeman Baker, at Auburn, was obliged to use his revolver to bend off two prisoners who attempted to take leg bail while being escorted to jail. Neither man was hit and they were captured after some difficulty after the whole town was aroused by the fusilade.

The Kosciusko county council has refused to make an appropriation for the payment of bounties on woodchuck scalps. This is thought by many farmers to be a mistake, as the animals are much scarcer than formerly and a few more years of bounty would completely exterminate them.

Rev. Dr. W. D. Parr, of Kokomo, Ind., the recently elected general secretary of the Methodist church of America, is thought to hold the world's record in number of churches dedicated. He has officiated at 105 dedications, assisted at others and established many new societies, all without neglecting his own charge.

Up in Lagrange county there is a project on foot to secure possession of the old mill water power at Ontario and Mongo for the purpose of operating an electric line through Ontario, Mongo, Brushy Prairie, Elmira, Stroh and Helmer to Waterloo. It is a branch of the Angola-Goshen line and would intersect the latter at Ontario.

When Huntington officers attempted to arrest Ellsworth Reichard on Saturday evening for raising a disturbance at a saloon there, a large crowd of the prisoner's friends interfered and a small-sized riot resulted. The police were finally able to land their man in jail, but not until there had been an angry demonstration by the mob.

A small sized cyclone passed over the country between Auburn and Waterloo the other day and in its path struck a corn field on Mrs. Rorebaugh's farm. Soon afterward it was found that about ten bushels of corn had been husked as neatly as could have been done by hand or machinery and piled in a fence corner. The other farms in that section considerable damage was done to fences and trees.

It is courting danger to stand under icy eaves. Not a few have learned this to their cost. Every winter injury and even death are reported as the result of this carelessness. But there is a far more popular way of courting danger. Every man or woman who neglects a cough is inviting sickness, and many a fatal sickness has its beginning in a slight cough.

The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure the cough. Even when the cough is obstinate and there is hemorrhage with emaciation and weakness, "Golden Medical Discovery" always helps and almost always cures.

"I was troubled with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and left me with a miserable cough," writes Mr. Joseph D. Burns, of 108 Lincoln Street, Ithaca, New York. "I used two bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after which my cough disappeared entirely. I can not recommend your medicine too highly."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs. Substitution means a little more profit to the dealer but a loss to you.

PROHIBITION TICKET FILED

TACIT ENDORSEMENT OF THE SUPREME JUDGES.

Party Has No Candidates for the Supreme or Appellate Court Benches on Ticket.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The prohibitionists yesterday filed at the governor's office the name of their nominees for state office, but in the names there are no nominees for the one supreme judge nor the six appellate judges. This is construed by some as a quiet indorsement of the judges in office. Recently the supreme and appellate courts held good the written authority to sign remonstrances against the issuance of liquor licenses.

The Anti-Saloon league and other temperance forces have been cooperating under this decision to drive one hundred saloons out of business each month. The temperance forces generally speak with approval of the attitude of the courts on the liquor question.

The republican politicians are not boasting of the work of the courts in this line for the reason, it is said, that the liquor forces might become combative. A republican state officer said today that if the election were close, the prohibitionist support of the republican nominees for supreme and appellate judges might elect them, while the rest of the ticket would be defeated.

QUESTION RAISED.

The filing of the ticket raised a question on the legality of such a name as J. Levi Lord, the nominee for auditor of state, or J. Lewis Speicher, nominee for state statistician. The blank certificates have the following directions: "Insert first name in full, thus: William C. Smith, not W. C. Smith."

Charles E. Wilson, the governor's private secretary, advised the prohibitionist state chairman, who filed the ticket, that he had better be on the safe side by seeing the attorney general about the names. The attorney general's office advised him that J. Levi and J. Lewis are all right.

The ticket filed is as follows:

Secretary of State—James M. Dungan, of Indianapolis.

Auditor of State—J. Levi Lord, of Mays.

Treasurer of State—Preston Ryder, of Columbus.

Attorney General—Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland.

Clerk of the Supreme Court—Chas. F. Holler, of South Bend.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Andrew F. Mitchell, of Bloomingdale.

State Geologist—Earl Stinespring, of Lafayette.

State Statistician—J. Lewis Speicher, of Urbana.

DR. LINDLEY'S CURED PATIENTS.

FROM OTHER FIELDS TALK FOR HIS GOLDEN REMEDY.

Of the many patients who have been cured by Dr. Lindley of various maladies all appear anxious to testify for his treatment and to assure the afflicted that there is a cure for them.

Miss Annie R. Herbert from Lynn, Mass., writes of her entire relief from epilepsy by this great remedy.

Mr. O. H. Cooper, of Anderson, Ind., says: "I believe your Golden Remedy has about cured my fits and my health in many ways is better, especially my kidneys, my rheumatism and piles all by your Golden Cures."

Miss M. M. Chaffey, Putnam, Tex., writes to the same effect about her epileptic attacks.

We could add hundreds of like import. But the cured ones are safe; it is the thousands yet suffering we want to reach. This has induced us to put our Golden Remedy in the drug stores, where all can get it handily.

If your druggist does not have it send direct to us.

OUT OF DEATH'S JAWS.

BRYAN COMMENDS ROOSEVELT.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 7.—In a statement made last evening, W. J. Bryan says President Roosevelt should be commended for his efforts to settle the miners' strike. He suggests, however, that since the operators decline to arbitrate, the president's hands are tied, and urges him to call an extra session of congress. Five measures, Mr. Bryan says, should be recommended for passage. Summarized, these are, in Mr. Bryan's language:

"A law establishing a national board of arbitration, consisting of three to five members to consider and report on all controversies between corporations engaged in interstate commerce and their employes; a law abolishing government by injunction; a law that will discriminate between the natural made man, created by the Almighty, and the corporate giant created by legislation; a law taking the tariff off coal; a law which will prevent railroads engaged in interstate commerce from operating coal mines except for the purpose of supplying fuel for their own engines."

PLANT THAT TRAPS PREY.

But a few months ago an English naturalist named Dunstan was walking near the bank of Lake Nicaragua when suddenly he heard his dog howling at a little distance behind him. Rushing to the animal's assistance, he found that it was in the grasp of three black and greasy throngs, which had coiled themselves around its neck kand had torn it so badly that blood was flowing in several places. After some difficulty the naturalist freed the dog and in a few days its wounds were healed.

The throngs which imprisoned the animal were the principal portions of a plant which is known among the natives of Nicaragua as the "devil's trap." It is composed of black, flexible, leafless branches, which secrete a viscious fluid.

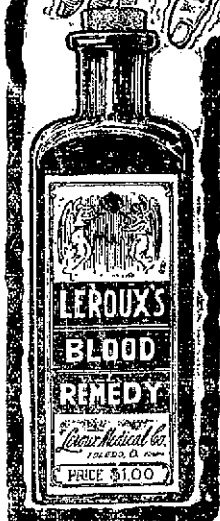
SHATTERED NERVES



THE NERVES are among the first organisms of the human system to suffer when the blood becomes impoverished or impure. They vibrate with the fever of impeded circulation and gradually lose tissue until that state of physical collapse ensues that is known as nervous prostration. The nourishment the nerves need is in the blood, and only when the blood is ridden of its disease-breeding substances can the nerves be restored to their normal, healthy condition.

Leroux's Blood Remedy

Is a noted nerve nourisher. Filtering through the blood, as it does, it removes the alien agencies of disease and stimulates the circulation to the important work of building of the run-down nerve tissues. With the return of the blood to its ordinary purity and purpose comes the complete restoration of the nerve functions.

TWO BOTTLES CURED HIM.

THE LEROUX MEDICINE CO., TOLEDO, O.:
About nine months ago I took cold and had a high fever, and the doctor naturally treated me for that fever, and during the treatment my face began to swell and break out in terrible shape. I asked the doctor what that meant. He said I was badly blood poisoned, and kept on the treatment until I got worse and worse. My face was so badly swollen I could hardly see during that time. A friend of mine visited me and asked me what was the matter. I told him I was blood poisoned. He said that he heard Mr. Leroux had a wonderful blood purifier. "Why don't you try a bottle?" I took his advice and sent for one; I used it and was astonished at the result; it diminished the swelling and soreness rapidly; after using the second bottle I thought I was a new man altogether, and never felt so good since my sickness.
I cannot recommend Leroux's Infallible Remedy too highly.
